HOUSE IS NEAR VOTE ON TREATY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—When the House convened to-day, Representatives Underwood, McCall, Dalzell, Dwight, Burleson, Fordney, Adamson and Fassett tried to determine upon a program for the day in an informal conference.

Representative McCall asked unanimous consent that members be given ten days' leave to print remarks on the reciprocity bill. This was granted. It was decided that Representative McCall would control the time for the debate in favor of the bill and Representative Dalzell would control that opposed to it. A session may be held to-night, and there is a possibility that the measure will be passed before midnight.

Victory for Coalition.

With the solid backing of Champ Clark and the other Democratic representatives, it looked as if the McCall bill would be rushed through Congress with railroad speed.

Before the opening of to-day's session the Democratic leaders and some of the Republicans predicted that the measure would have an early passage. It is recognized on all sides that the victory when achieved will be due to the coalition of Taft and the Democrats. If left to the mercy of insurgent and "stand pat" Republicans, as was evidenced in the vote on consideration yesterday, the reciprocal agreement would be overwhelmingly defeated. That vote was taken to-day to be an index as to what the line-up on the bill itself will be. A few of the Democratic members of the house voted against consideration and probably will vote against the bill.

They are so few, however, that their attitude has no party significance and leaves to Champ Clark and his adherents whatever prestige there may be in a practically solid Democratic front in support of the President.

Yesterday's vote showed conclusively how the Republicans line up. Only 62 of them voted in favor of considering the President's pet measure while 101 of them were against it. On the other hand the Democrats gave 124 votes in favor of consideration, while but 10 voted against it.

See End of Protection.

Some of the Republicans declared that they see the beginning of the end of protection in the reciprocity agreement.

Senators Dick and Burton of Ohio saw President Taft at the White House to-day. On leaving they said they told the President that the McCall reciprocity bill could not go through the Senate at this session because of the short time remaining. Senator Burton said that a majority of the Senate would vote for the bill.

L. D. F. MARSTON IS ACCUSED BY U. S.

Lorenzo D. F. Marston, living in Kenberma road, Dorchester, an inspector in the State department of weights and measures, was arrested to-day by United States Deputy Marshal Watters charged with swearing to a false affidavit in connection with his voluntary bankruptcy proceedings. Marston filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy claiming liabilities of $37,000 and no assets. He swore he didn't have money to pay a court fee of $30. At this time he was being pressed for payment of a debt of $61.80 due Kesmer & Mitchell, tailors. The government claims that he padded the list of creditors for the purpose of beating his tailor's bill.

FIGHT OVER SHEPARD WILL IS POSTPONED

Because Attorney O. S. Clark, counsel for Mrs. Carrie E. Dodge, a beneficiary under the will of Oobert C. Shepard of Waltham, was unable to appear in the East Cambridge Probate Court to-day, the fight on the part of Mr. Shepard's three daughters to have the will broken was postponed until Thursday. Shepard, who died Sept. 11, 1910, left but $50 in cash and equal shares in some Waltham property to his daughters, willing his rest of his $60,000 estate to persons outside the family and the town of Jefferson, Me., and several Waltham charitable institutions.

THE LOWEST ADVERTISING RATE IN NEW ENGLAND

No newspaper in New England reaches for its advertisers as many readers at as low a cost as does

THE BOSTON AMERICAN

It costs an advertiser but one and one-hundredths cents ($.0101) per inch per thousand circulation, or seven-hundred-twenty-five thousandths of a mill ($.000725) per agate line per thousand circulation.

From the most reliable statistics available the BOSTON AMERICAN is surpassed in the lowness of its advertising rate (and then only by a slight margin) by only two newspapers in America—the New York Journal and the Portland (Oregon) Journal, a paper with 37,161 circulation.

The circulation of the AMERICAN is subject to the most rigid investigation by anyone at any time.

JOHN H. HAMMOND, SPECIAL ENVOY TO THE CORONATION

JOHN HAYES HAMMOND.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The President to-day received from John Hays Hammond his acceptance of the appointment as special ambassador to attend the coronation of George V.

The last special ambassador to Great Britain was Theodore Roosevelt. Mr. Hammond has a long residence behind him in England and the British possessions in South Africa.

For several years Mr. Hammond lived in London, where he was interested in mining companies. Returning to the United States, he was closely associated with the Guggenheims in their mining operations in the West. Mr. Hammond's political ambitions led to him to offer himself as a candidate for the vice-presidency along with Mr. Taft, but his offer was rejected by the leaders. After the campaign he became head of the National League of Republican Clubs.

His home residence is at Gloucester.

CHANGES MIND IN CHARLES

While hundreds of passengers on cars filled along Warren bridge, Charlestown, and two police officers looked on helplessly, an unknown man, about 45 years old and well dressed, attempted suicide by jumping into the Charles River, between the Boston & Maine Railroad bridge and the Warren bridge, about noon to-day. After holding his head under water for a short time the man lost his courage and grabbed a life-preserver thrown him by one of the patrolmen from the Warren bridge. He was pulled unconscious from the water and sent to the Relief Station.

According to the officials of the B. & M. R. R., the man had been acting suspiciously about the railroad yards for two hours. The police were notified and two patrolmen were sent from station 1. As they neared the river the man jumped into the water. It is thought by the police that the man is deranged.

SCOUTS' CONVENTION ADDRESSED BY TAFT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—A reception and address by President Taft, honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America, in the east room of the White House, opened the convention to-day. The President spoke on the general subject of the association, its purposes for the future and its accomplishments in the past. After the reception the Senate held a meeting at its headquarters which will be followed by a banquet to-night. Frank Presbrey will preside at the banquet. George D. Pratt, president of the Standard Oil Company, and Colin H. Livingstone, a Washington banker, will preside at the business sessions which will be held to-day and to-morrow.

JURORS AT SCENE OF DEATH

PLYMOUTH, Feb. 14.—The jury which will decide the fate of Enrico Mascioli, alias Harry Marshall, and of Mrs. Lena Cusumano, who are charged with the murder of the woman's husband, Frank Cusumano, to-day visited the boarding house in Hull where it is alleged the crime was committed. Later the jury, in charge of several deputy sheriffs and accompanied by counsel representing the government and the defence, examined the spot where the body of Cusumano was found at Sunset Point Beach on October 14 last.

Because of the time consumed in the jury's trip to-day, Judge Schofield decided there would be no session of the court to-day. The trial will be resumed to-morrow morning at 9:30.

Mrs. Cusumano and Mascioli spent the day in their cells. Both arose early and breakfasted at the usual prison hour for the first meal—6 o'clock. It was the gloomiest St. Valentine's day either has passed.

Jurors Are Called Early.

The jurors were called early, after spending their first night together at the Samoset House. At 6 o'clock a hearty breakfast was eaten. The next hour after the meal was given over to preparations for the visit to the scene of the alleged murder.

From Hingham the journey to Hull was made in barges. The jury was first driven to the lodging house kept by Mrs. Cusumano, where her husband was alive, and where it is alleged Mascioli was the murderer.

After going through the house, in which the counsel pointed out the rooms which will appear later in the evidence, the jurymen were taken to Sunset Point Beach. Here they were shown the spot at which Cusumano's body was found and then rolled up in a bed quilt and bound with telephone wire. The body was badly mangled. The medical examiner, who is to testify, declared that death must have been instantaneous from a gash on the neck, which cut the jugular vein.

It will be remembered that it was several days before the body was identified as that of the missing Cusumano, who had not been heard from in weeks. Cusumano was respected in Hull, having lived there

ARCHBISHOP IS ILL WITH GRIP

Archbishop O'Connell is suffering from an attack of grip and will be confined to his room for some days.

In consequence of this indisposition the Archbishop will not be able to go to Philadelphia to attend the funeral obsequies of the late Archbishop Ryan.

The Archbishop's illness is not serious, however. There is no necessity for alarm over the condition of the distinguished prelate. He has fallen subject to the malady which is so prevalent now in Boston. A few days of treatment and precaution are expected to restore him to his usual good health.

PEEVISH KENTUCKIAN SPREADS SMALLPOX

MAYFIELD, Ky., Feb. 14.—Charged with spreading smallpox because he was "sore on the town" and causing at last report death from the disease, Walter Scott, a member of a prominent family here, was held for trial to-day. Scott was arrested after the death of E. D. Wyatt, a merchant, to whom he is accused of having communicated germs. The authorities charge that Scott after contemplating himself by associating with small pox victims in the gest house entered the homes and places of business of his friends. His only explanation was that he was "sore on the town." His complaint states that he entered Wyatt's store and shook hands with him with the deliberate intention to infect him.

CALIFORNIA RACING TO END TO-MORROW

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14.—The passing of horse racing in California will be completed at the conclusion of to-morrow's programme at the Emeryville race track. At that time the Walker anti-pool selling anti-gambling bill, passed two weeks ago by the State Legislature, will become operative and its provisions are so drastic that track owners and horse owners although decided to give up the struggle. Bills have been introduced in both branches of the legislature providing for the appointment of a racing commission, but there is not one chance in a hundred that the Legislature will permit them to see the light of day.

FINDS MOTHER DEAD.

Mrs. Mary Duffie, aged seventy-five, of No. 135 Webster avenue, Cambridgeport, was found dead in bed to-day by her son, Frank Duffie, who had gone upstairs to awaken her. Medical Examiner William D. Reed gave heart disease as the cause of death.

THE WEATHER.

Snow or rain to-night. Probably snow to-morrow. Wind east, increasing to high.

Sun rises 6:43, sets 5:14.
Moon rises 6:44 p. m.
High tide 12:10 p. m.

Mrs. Cusumano; Man Accused With Her

ENRICO MASCIOLI MRS LENA CUSUMANO

MRS. HEATH IN TEARS IN COURT

Mrs. Emma Frances Heath, who is suing Caged Mrs. Sarah Merriam for $50,000, alleging that the elderly widow stole the love of her husband, Nathaniel Heath, to-day took the witness stand and denied many of the statements made by both her husband and Mrs. Merriam.

Mrs. Heath was testifying in rebuttal, the case of the defence having closed before she went on the witness stand. Once during her testimony she broke down and wept.

Mr. Heath was questioned by her lawyer, Mr. Nason. He questioned her as follows:

Q.—Your husband said that on the first night that you and he stayed at Mrs. Merriam's you said she ought not to be left alone on account of her age, and that you urged him to stay with her? A.—No.

Gives a Flat Denial.

Q.—The next day did you say that you couldn't stand the noise of the cars and so left him alone to stay with Mrs. Merriam, as he has testified? A.—No, I did not.

Q.—Did Mr. Heath ever charge you with deceiving him by limiting Miss Anderson's notes which you called on the 'phone, as he has testified here? A.—No.

Q.—Did you plan trolley trips with Mrs. Merriam and Miss Anderson? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ever say that you wished the hotel would burn down? A.—I might have, I had suffered so much that it was in my heart to say so.

Never Nagged Husband.

Q.—Mr. Heath, when he was on the witness stand, explained that his break with you and Miss Anderson was caused by your nagging him about Miss Anderson. Is that true? A.—I never nagged him about Miss Anderson. Such an incident as he described never occurred.

Q.—The incident that is referred to is that in which Heath said he cried to "bluff" his wife into leaving him. "I went home and told her I loved another woman," said Heath. "Then I proceeded to take out pictures off the mantel shelf and tear them up, but it was all a bluff."

Q.—Heath testified that when he left the hotel for good he went home to start for them and told you you could go if you did not come in because if he did come in and you were not there he would leave him and that when he put his arms out to you you pushed him away. Is that true? A.—No, it is not true.

Q.—Heath said that he came to you later and tried to get you to sign a deed saying that he would sell the property and give you $500 if you would drop this suit? A.—Well, he came to me and said that he could sell the property and offered me some money to drop the suit. I refused.

Talk With Brother.

Q.—Heath said that he and his brother pleaded with you to drop the suit. Is that true? A.—I went to his brother and I said, 'Won't you go to Nat and tell him to cease home and treat me right.' 'Yes, Fan nie, I will. I know you are all right and I will go to Nat and tell him that if he doesn't treat you right he will never be happy again.'

Mrs. Heath wept as she told of this interview. The brother to whom she referred has died since the suit was started.

Mr. Nason then went over the entire testimony of Mr. Heath and Mrs. Merriam, questioning Mrs. Heath in regard to every statement that conflicted with her testimony given in direct examination. Mrs. Heath admitted nothing and wherever differences occurred contradicted the statements of the two other witnesses.

At 4 o'clock court adjourned until to-morrow to allow divorce cases to be tried during the afternoon session.

CALUMET OFFER IS APPROVED

The committee of the Boston Stock Exchange appointed to consider the terms offered by the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company to the stockholders of the allied companies which it is proposed to consolidate, reported to-day that it had come to the unanimous conclusion that the plan is conceived with absolute intent towards a fairness and is as fair a plan as could be produced under existing conditions.

The plan provides for the funding of a new corporation with $100,000,000 capital, divided into 400,000 shares of $25 par value each. The companies to be merged in the line-up are: Calumet & Hecla Mining Company, Seneca Mining Company, Ahmeek Mining Company, Allouez Mining Company, Osceola Consolidated Mining Company, Centennial Copper Mining Company, Tamarack Mining Company, Laurium Mining Company, La Salle Copper Company and Superior Copper Company. All these properties are located in the Lake Superior copper mining district, and of present almost forty-two per cent of the stock is owned by the Calumet & Hecla.

The committee making the report included George S. Babbitt, chairman; Robert A. Tucker, Irving J. Sturgis, Francis H. Hart and Charles F. Adams.

WILDER BEQUEST OF $2,000 TO HARVARD

The will of Florence Elizabeth Wilder of Cambridge, who died February 2, was filed at the Probate Court, East Cambridge, to-day. The estate is valued at $10,000, all in personal property. Bequests are made to Harvard College, $2,000 to establish a museum to be known as the "Wilder prize, the principal to be invested and the income given to a needy freshman who pursues the highest German rank in examination. To the Episcopal Bishop of Eastern Massachusetts $200 for a memorial altar piece; $500 to the Massachusetts S. P. C. A., and $1,000 to the Massachusetts General Hospital.

STILL DEADLOCK IN NEW YORK ASSEMBLY

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 14.—As was expected the Senatorial deadlock continued to-day on the twenty-fourth joint ballot. No changes were developed. "I went home and to Senators. The Assemblymen likewise were faithful to their candidates.

REVOLT IN HAYTI IS CRUSHED OUT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The revolution in Hayti has been crushed, according to a telegram to the State Department from Minister Furness at Port au Prince. Minister Furness added that General Oumas has been appointed Minister of War.

The ruling is the result of protests made by the Interstate Commerce Commission by children's clubs and leagues all over the country.

The names of the winners in the AMERICAN'S EDUCATIONAL CONTEST will be published in the SUNDAY AMERICAN on February 19.

EXPERT SHOWS HOW MAN WAS SLAIN IN ROOM

SALEM, Feb. 14.—Minas Momjian, the victim of the Lynn "trunk murder," was shot through the heart, probably with a revolver in which smokeless powder was used, it was brought out today in the trial in this city of Vahan Nalbandian, who is charged with the murder.

It was testified that Nalbandian had been playing the stock market, as was indicated by the finding of between thirty and forty letters and circulars to him from stock brokers.

When the clothing of the dead man was examined after it had been taken from the trunk only seven cents was found in it.

Eight witnesses were called by the Commonwealth after which it was announced that they saw the victim of the tragedy with a big roll of money shortly before he was killed. He went from Cambridge with him here $500 was found on his death. Others saw him with a large sum the day before he was killed and others on the day he was shot.

Bullet Pierced the Heart.

Medical Examiner Pinkham was called to the stand by the Commonwealth. He told about the fatal wound.

The bullet entered the man's heart, testified the medical examiner, "from a revolver pointed downward at an angle of about forty-five degrees. There were no powder marks."

Cross-examined by Lawyer Sias, the medical examiner was asked:

Q.—Could a man speak after he was shot through the heart? A.—Yes, he might speak and he might say two or three sentences.

Q.—Will you please read those four words in front of the autopsy? A.—I reported that the man might have been killed in one of three positions. He might have been lying on the floor, reclining on a bed or sitting in a low chair.

Q.—Were there any powder marks? A.—No. But since I made the autopsy I have made some experiments on the coat worn by the dead man. I used a revolver and smokeless powder. I shot at the vest two and a half inches away and there were no powder marks.

Q.—If dark powder had been used, how far would the man who shot him have to stand to get the minimum distance of twenty inches and a maximum distance of eight feet.

Tells of Experiments.

On redirect examination Medical Examiner Pinkham said that he had used a Colt's automatic smokeless revolver in his experiments last week and that in his opinion the minimum distance that the powder would burn if of this kind, could have been held from the body was three inches.

Inspector Benjamin F. Wright, who told yesterday about the finding of the body in the house when the tragedy was discovered and of opening the trunk in which the body had been locked, took the stand again to-day.

"I searched the room superficially the first day," testified Wright. "I found in the closet some old shoes and the tray out of the trunk.

"I went to the house again in company with Inspector Burkes and he discovered the cartridge shell. I saw papers on a small table. They were addressed to Frank Jones (a name by which the prisoner was known) with the exception of one, which was addressed to Nalbandian. One of the papers showed that the receiver of the letters had bought ten shares of American Pneumatic Service Company stock."

Victim's Sister in Court.

It was not brought out what other stocks had been bought. Two or three women witnesses, who are expected to give testimony, were in the court room to-day. One of the women in the court room was Mrs. Alice Adams, a young and attractive sister of the dead man. She arrived in Lynn the day her brother's body was discovered in the trunk. On her way home she saw a headline announcing the "trunk mystery" in a newspaper, but did not associate that with her brother. She was one of those who helped to bring the prisoner back from Bulgaria.

New light was thrown upon the "trunk murder" mystery to-day, when one of the last persons to see Minos Momjian, the victim, alive, took the witness on the witness stand in the trial of Vahan Nalbandian.

Two continents were searched for the man charged with the crime before he was caught in Bulgaria and brought back to stand trial. The first witness called to-day was Sopad Santonjian, the keeper of a coffee house in Lynn. He was questioned by Atty. Gen. Attorney Atwell.

Q.—Did you know the defendant and the dead man? A.—I knew them both.

PATROLMAN PROMOTED.

The promotion of Patrolman Patrick J. McDonough of the Joy Street Station to the rank of sergeant was announced in a general order issued to-day.

18 RESCUED IN ROXBURY FIRE

Three firemen were injured and eighteen persons whose lives were endangered were assisted to the street by policemen and firemen during a fire which caused a damage of $10,000 in the Hotel Dartmouth at Dudley and Warren streets, Roxbury, early to-day.

Two aged women who were overcome by smoke were carried from the third floor to the street by Sergeant Hickey of the Dudley street station and Lieutenant Richardson of Ladder Four of Dudley street.

Miss Dorothy Simson, a prominent Roxbury society girl and Conservatory of Music student, proved a heroine. She assisted Chief Sias and Firemen in getting the people out of the building and refused to leave until she was sure that everybody had reached the street in safety.

Several persons, who were asleep on the upper floors, were partly overcome by smoke and the rescuers found difficulty in getting them down the stairs.

The flames ate their way from the drug store of L. D. Drury on the first floor, up three flights of stairs on the second floor and it was feared for a time that the entire building was doomed. The flames spread into Bonnie McKee's confectionery and periodical store at No. 146 Dudley street on one side and into the stores of the C. A. and S. W. Brackett Company, models, at No. 150 and the Fellows Electrical Company, at No. 57 Warren street, on the opposite side.

Postoffice in Danger.

The Dudley postoffice at No. 55 Warren street was in danger from the flames many times, and the clerks made preparations to remove the mail.

"If it had not been for the discovery of the blaze by Patrolman Steve Gillen of the Dudley street station, nothing could have saved the big four-story stone block," said Deputy Chief Mcdonough after the fire had been extinguished.

The Dartmouth Hotel is divided in two sections. The tenants on six rooms on the entrance at No. 144 Dudley street, while the other entrance at No. 51 Warren street is used by those living in the other half of the hotel. The first floor is taken up by stores. Drury's drug store is situated at Dudley and Warren streets.

Patrolman Gillen was joined by Sergt. Hickey and they rushed up stairs on the Dudley street side of the building. By ringing the bells outside the stairs the policemen succeeded in arousing nearly everybody in the hotel.

Frank E. Rhoads, dentist, former athlete and well known bowler, and Fadly, occupy Suite 1 directly overhead the drug store. Ten persons were asleep in

EX-CAPT. SWAN DIES AT HOME

William R. Swan, a retired police captain and a Civil War veteran, died at his home, No. 206 Sherrlieff street, Chelsea, early today, of heart trouble, after an illness of a month. The funeral will be held from his home Thursday afternoon and the body will be taken to South Paris, Me., for burial.

Captain Swan was born in Woodstock, Me., and was in his eighty-fourth year. He had lived in Chelsea for more than fifty years. He was engaged in the grocery business in that city for several years up to 1851, when he joined the police force. He served until 1861, when he resigned and enlisted in Co. D., Fifth Massachusetts Volunteers, also known as the Minute Men.

After serving several months he was sent to Maine on recruiting duty and organized a company with which he served all through the war. He returned to Chelsea and in 1873 was again appointed to the police force, in 1885 he resigned, but four years afterward rejoined the force as captain, a position he held until 1896, when he resigned.

Since his retirement Captain Swan had spent most of his time at his summer home at Poland, Me. He was a member of Theodore Winthrop Post, G. A. R., and was prominent in Masonic circles. A widow, one son and two daughters survive.

TWO WOMEN CLAIM THE SAME HUSBAND

Confronted by two women who claimed him as husband, Attorney Yarsetz of No. 89 Endicott street, North End, was in the South Boston District Police Court today on the charge of bigamy. He denied the accusation. The court found probable cause and he was held in $500 for the Superior Court. One of the women came here from Italy to find Yarsetz, she said. An interpreter told the court she said she was married in Italy to Yarsetz in 1907. She produced a marriage certificate to prove it. The other woman told the court she was married to Yudsetz by the Rev. Fr. Thomas Chilinski, pastor of the Lithuanian Catholic Church, South Boston, in November, 1909.

HELD FOR POSTAL BREAK.

Thomas Smith of Lowell was held today by United States Commissioner Hayes in $3,000 bail for a hearing to-morrow on a charge of breaking and entering the post-office at Mt. Hilberis, near Lowell, on February 6. He was arrested last evening by Deputy Marshal Ruhl on complaint of Postoffice Inspector Owings.

Preserves Natural Color of the Hair

(From Woman's National Magazine).

"Any woman can postpone for years the time when her hair becomes thin and gray. It is a mistake to shampoo frequently with soap and water, as that tends to make the scalp scaly and hard and the hair dull and faded.

The hair will respond quickly to the proper home treatment. Put in a fruit jar four ounces of orris root and four ounces of therox. Shake until well mixed. Once or twice a week sprinkle a little of this powder on the head and brush it thoroughly through the hair.

"This dry shampoo removes dirt, dust and dandruff from the scalp and leaves the hair fresh, sweet and clean. The therox helps to give beautiful hair and preserves its natural color."

DOROTHY SIMSON, DARTMOUTH HOTEL FIRE HEROINE

MISS DOROTHY SIMSON

GIRL HEROINE AT FIRE IN HOTEL

this suite and they were in the most danger.

Miss Simson was awakened by the ringing of the bell, to find the apartment filled with smoke, which was so thick she could hardly see. She ran from room to room arousing the other members of the family. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Simson there were two sons, James, nineteen, and Kenneth, twelve, and a daughter, Eleanor, eighteen, and four guests from New York. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bronson and their eight-months-old daughter Mildred and Miss Francis Kelley.

The police assisted the members of the family to the street. By this time the firemen had arrived and several were dispatched through the building to aid in the work of rescue. On the second floor Lieutenant Richardson and Sergeant Hickey found Mrs. Arthur D. Phelps and Miss Harriet K. Bryant, aged women, nearly unconscious from smoke. Each seized one of the women in his arms and carried them down to the second floor. Lieutenant Richardson then returned to the top floor of the building to direct the other firemen in the building when he suddenly slipped on the stairs and fell from the fourth floor to the third floor. He sustained a painful injury to his ankle and was taken to the street by members of his own company.

Saved From Upper Floors.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harriman and two lodgers, G. H. Hinckley and C. H. Gierr from were hurried out of Suite 6 on the top floor by the firemen. Dr. Sarah M. Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Crawford and Miss Della Cassidy, a maid, were taken out of Suite 5 on the second floor. The building was filled with smoke and the occupants were obliged to hold handkerchiefs over their faces while groping their way down the stairs.

Frank Liddle, consul for the Dominican Republic, and his wife, who occupy suite 4 on the second floor, were not obliged to leave the building. Their apartments keeps some distance removed from the fire and several of those who had been driven out were ushered in their apartments until after the fire had been extinguished. The members of the Simson family and their guests were taken to the quarters of Landlord Dudley Street, where they remained while the firemen were at work.

OKLAHOMA TOWNS RENEW OLD FEUD

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Feb. 14.—State troops are held in readiness for service in Swanson county following a renewal of hostilities in the old time war between the towns of Sulfer and Mountain Park. At least one person has been shot to death. The feud between the two towns has existed for ten years. They are only three miles apart and at intervals armed bands have made raids. The cause is the desire of each town to be the county seat. C. F. Bull, chairman of the county commissioners; J. K. Armstrong, county constabulary, and J. F. Bristow, county clerk are to-day held prisoners in Mountain Park following a raid yesterday.

PEPPER ENDANGERS LIFE OF WOMAN

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—A combination of a sneeze and a cough near by cost Miss Lena Siegfried her life to-day. The woman is employed as a maid in the home of Mrs. E. J. Hall in Mofristown, N. J. While peppering some soup some of the seasoning entered her nostrils and she choked, shutting off the air supply, as they thought, when she was suffocated.

Dr. George H. Willis found that an immediate operation was necessary.

LOVE FATAL TO THREE.

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 14—Love caused a triple tragedy here to-day. William McCrary fired a fatal bullet into his head the ball coming out and piercing the brain of a friend standing nearby. The woman in the case, when she learned of McCrary's death, swallowed carbolic acid and is dying.

NEW DEPARTMENT ADDED BY WM. S. BUTLER & CO.

The latest progressive move by William S. Butler & Co.—and the thousands of people have been taught to expect innovations at this popular Tremont street store—is the addition of a department devoted to child dress.

The Butler idea was to have a department where the women gather could get the very best service at popular prices. A suite of three large rooms recently fitted up have been set apart for this purpose. But the name does not do it justice, for, besides everything for the newborn babe, the facial massaging and the like are also carried there.

The rooms themselves are a delight to the eye. The color scheme is green, a soft and soothing tint. Pretty draperies adorn the windows and cover the floors. To carry on the work the very latest electrical apparatus has been installed.

Mechano Therapeutics For the Eyes;

HARMFUL DRUGS. NO DANGEROUS OPERATIONS. NO RACKING SURGICAL INSTRUMENTATION.

Soft & gentle, natural method of restoring the eye to the vigor that normally belongs to it. MECHANO THERAPEUTICS does not attempt to give sight to those who never possessed it, but to those who are suffering from the sight brought on by overwork or some ailment it gives relief and restores vision. Consultation free. Call or write for necessary proofs & personal consultation.

WOULD YOU LIKE TO THROW AWAY YOUR GLASSES?

Mechano Therapeutics will teach you to do it. The cost of stenographers, book-keepers, students and draughtsmen is greatly reduced by relief to the eyes. Glasses give relief, but they do not restore the vision. Mechano Therapeutics does. $10.00 secures complete treatment. Write now. Address, mention this paper, Dr. Wm. Hall, 1 Hanover, Room 19, Barristers' Hall, Brockton, Mass.

Double Legal Stamps will be given with every purchase mornings, until 12 o'clock noon, at Wolfe's "My Clothier," corner Hanover and Portland streets. Single stamps thereafter.

BOSTON AMERICAN $ 35,000 PRIZE COUPON DISTRICT 1 VOTE

ADDRESS

TOWN AND STATE

VALUELESS AFTER FEBRUARY 28, 1911.

TOMORROW'S SPECIAL PRIZES IN CONTEST

By THE CONTEST EDITOR.

There is just one thing that the Contest Editor wishes to talk about to-day. That is the special inducements offered to candidates in the AMERICAN'S Prize Contest to turn in a big vote to-morrow, February 15.

The $35,000 Prize Contest started January 15. To-morrow the contest will be one month old. Pretty thrilling infant, at that.

In honor of the contest attaining the interesting age of one month the AMERICAN wishes to make Wednesday, February 15, a banner day for receiving votes.

In order to interest the candidates in this particular day the AMERICAN holds out inducements to the candidates in the shape of special cash prizes for an extra big vote on that day. Here is the offer:

Five Cash Prizes.

Five cash prizes will be awarded to the five candidates who turn in the highest vote BY SUBSCRIPTION on Wednesday, February 15, up to 10 p. m. The prizes are:

First Prize—$20 in gold.
Second Prize—$15 in gold.
Third Prize—$5 in gold.
Fourth Prize—$5 in gold.
Fifth Prize—$5 in gold.

Remember, this offer applies only to votes turned in on the particular day, to-morrow, Wednesday, February 15. The prizes are not for candidates having the highest to all standing on that day but to candidates turning in the most votes by subscriptions on that day.

The office of the Contest Department at No. 272 Devonshire street will be open till 10 o'clock to-morrow night on account of this special offer.

The Contest Editor will be on hand Wednesday evening before 10 p. m., as shown by the coupon, which will be accepted for this special offer.

Now you candidates, there are some things to bear in mind at this particular time. One is HUSTLE. The other is WEDNESDAY.

If you have been holding back any votes you can't afford to any longer. If you have many candidates are doing that — turn them all in to-morrow before 10 p. m. If you mail them, be sure that they are mailed in full time to be postmarked not later than 10 p. m. to-morrow. For you want to get every vote you can to-morrow and to have it count on your Wednesday score. Be sure to be in the running for one of those five cash prizes.

Now for Record Day.

The Contest Editor wishes to make to-morrow a RECORD DAY for candidates and for the contest.

Bear in mind especially that the votes turned in to-morrow must be BY SUBSCRIPTION TO THE SUNDAY AMERICAN in order to count toward this special February 15 offer.

Some candidates will realize that, when they turn in an extra big vote they strengthen also boost their voting strength in the final contest and help the contest for the Fifty-Three special February prizes as well. In other words, every vote you turn in to-morrow counts in two contests, thus:

The $35,000 Prize Contest for the $8,000 Piano and two lots and for the other prizes.

The special February Contest for the Fifty-Three prizes for the candidate polling the most votes BY SUBSCRIPTION during the month of February.

The special February 15 Contest for the five cash prizes awarded to the candidate turning in the most votes BY SUBSCRIPTION on Wednesday, February 15.

If that isn't an inducement to hustle for votes, nothing ever will be.

Why You Should Hustle.

Another reason, too, for hustling just now. Each candidate wants to wind up the first month of the contest with a whirl. The standing of candidates will be published soon.

Have you sent in your photograph yet to the Contest Department? If you have not, do so now. The Contest Editor called for photographs Sunday. Be sure that your full name, district and address, including State, city or town, street and number, are marked plainly on the back of the photograph.

Follow the rules of the contest in regard to indorsing money orders and checks properly and making them payable to the order of the AMERICAN. Follow the other rules.

To-morrow the Contest Editor looks for a deluge of votes.

GEORGIA WIVES MAY WORK IF THEY WISH

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 14.—"I'd rather work for a living than sit at home and darn socks," said Mrs. Myra G. Brown to the judge in the Superior Court here, ex-plaining why she wanted an injunction to prevent her husband from interfering with her keeping her job in a commercial house. The judge showed his sympathy by making the restraining order permanent. The husband, Gilbert Brown, who is second officer on a steamship plying between Savannah and New York, is well to do, and his wife made no denial of his statement that he had provided well for her.

TEXAS TARGET FOR SHELLS IN MARCH

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 14.—The battleship Texas, which is being prepared for use as a target for the fleet, will be sent out to meet shot and shell just as though from a real foe about March 15. None of her equipment will be removed, and all her engines and guns will remain in place. The department may direct that machines be distributed about the ship, attached to gauges which will register the amount of pressure developed by the contact of the shells. In this manner the chances of the crew in actual warfare may be determined.

WOMEN URGE A CHINESE REPUBLIC

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14.—Two educated young Chinese women, Mrs. J. Sung, president of the Canton Normal School and Miss D. Loo, graduate of the University of California, addressed a revolution ary meeting under the auspices of the Young Chin pany here last night and solicited their male hearers to take up arms and fight for a republic in China.

TWO EAGLES SEEN NEAR NEWBURYPORT

NEWBURYPORT, Feb. 14.—Two eagles that had evidently been driven into the marshes through hunger attracted the attention of a carload of passengers bound from this city for Haverhill, and he car was stopped that the passengers might get a clear view of the birds.

MISS MUNN TO WED SATURDAY

Boston society will be represented Saturday at the wedding in Washington of Miss Carrie Louise Munn and Reginald Boardman.

Mr. Boardman and his bride-to-be have both been prominent among the North Shore younger set for several seasons.

WHITE'S STAR DAY.

R.H.WHITE Co.

Wednesday Is White's STAR Day

UNPARALLELED bargain-giving will signalize tomorrow Our SECOND GREAT WHITE STAR DAY of the year. In the amount of merchandise sold, in the astonishingly low prices, in the unqualified satisfaction of the customers, this month's WHITE STAR DAY WILL ESTABLISH AN ENTIRELY NEW HIGH RECORD FOR SALES.

Avail yourself of these marvellous saving opportunities, the greatest that you have enjoyed this season, the greatest that, in all probability, you will be able to obtain for many a day to come.

TOMORROW WILL BE A GALA DAY—LOOK FOR THE WHITE STAR SIGNS. EACH ONE REPRESENTS A SPECIAL BARGAIN FOR WEDNESDAY'S SELLING ONLY.

WHITE'S STAR DAY.

READ EVERY ITEM

The size of the type is no criterion of the wonderful values in this month's White's Star Day. For example—

The nose taffeta dresses offered at $8.75 and $11.50 are truly wonderful values; for sets at 1-3 less than former retail prices are worthy of a much larger advertisement in themselves.

Another lot of those beautiful $4.00 to $12.50 chiffon waists at $3.00 will prove bargain wonders. You will notice also that we offer 500 hemstitched huck towels at 25c, and that you can buy regular $1.00 satin finish pongee for 39c per yard.

These and hundreds of other bargain surprises await your coming Wednesday. Don't overlook a single item, no matter how small the type.

This great Star event has been planned for Wednesday and Wednesday only. Naturally the lots are limited, making early shopping advisable. Mail orders will be filled in the order received on Wednesday and Wednesday only, as long as these special lots last.

TORY JINGOES ATTACK TREATY

By WILLIAM HOSTER.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 14.—With the Tory jingo campaign against reciprocity approaching fever heat, William Randolph Hearst and his newspapers have been brought forward by the opposition to fan popular resentment.

Paying tribute to the great patriotic Americanism for which Mr. Hearst and his journals stand, their strong advocacy of reciprocity is now offered as evidence of the fact that Canadian annexation is the ultimate aim of the Americans who are urging the ratification of the Knox-Fielding reciprocity trade agreement.

The Toronto News, one of the most rabid of the Tory opposition newspapers, has this week said in the most organized campaign to defeat reciprocity on alleged patriotic grounds. Under flaring headlines copies of the News show a double page today, contain a picture of Mr. Hearst with this description beneath it:

"Mr. William Randolph Hearst, owner of the chain of Hearst newspapers which circulate in New York, Boston, Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles and other cities.

"What Mr. Hearst says in the editorial published in this issue discloses the ultimate goal of the American ambition of the Flag (Stars and Stripes, from Central America to the North Pole. For the Hearst papers, however much they may criticise, express with accuracy, on the whole, the thoughts of the masses of the American people."

Then follows across the top column of the first page of the paper under the heads: Leading editorials from the New York American and "American cuts loose from the British ensign," the editorial which the Toronto News interprets as expressing Mr. Hearst's sentiments in favor of the annexation of Canada.

Quotes Editorial.

The editorial quoted begins:

"On the opening day of the British Parliament the conservative leaders of both Lords and Commons forget for the moment their critical and distressing difficulties and uttered a long cry of protest against trade reciprocity between Canada and the United States. The entire story is printed in bold type, and in especially black type is printed the paragraph to which the Toronto News evidently attaches the most importance; that which deals with Canadian exports to the United States and which reads:

"Thus we are pouring rivers of money into the Canadian tariff coffers, for Canadian exporters step and stagger at our custom houses and prefer to trade with their British cousins across the sea.

"The power and influence of Mr. Hearst's personal advocacy of any measure, as well as that of his newspapers, are recognized in Canada. This tribute to Ireland was not needed from the Toronto News. Members of Parliament, without regard to party consideration admit it. But one Liberal members who are believers, Sir Wilfred Laurier, the Premier, refused to be panic stricken by this outburst. They do not believe reciprocity spells annexation of Canada and they do not find anything in the advocacy of reciprocity by Mr. Hearst, or his newspapers that points to a desire for the annexation or a hope, or a belief, that reciprocity will lead ultimately to the annexation of Canada by the United States.

Weapon Against Reciprocity.

Hatred of the members of the Parliament see in the attitude which the Toronto News has assumed a mere political expedient, prompted by an intelligence that the boys on the fence regarding trade agreement and born of a long cherished purpose to punish Mr. Hearst for the frank manner in which he has shown in the expressions of opinion regarding the political purposes of the British government.

In the present emergency Toronto News sees an opportunity to turn Mr. Hearst's strictures on British diplomacy into a weapon against reciprocity with the United States and it has promptly set to work.

Tending to show that it is a concerted movement to use Mr. Hearst and his alleged annexation beliefs to the fullest extent in fighting reciprocity, the Toronto World echoes in, coupling the names of Taft and Hearst. Says this paper this morning:

"The hope of the Americans which they had almost abandoned, namely, that of wiping Canada from off the map of North America has been recruited in ten times its former strength by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The American press is filled with lurid accounts of the great economic revolution now so auspiciously begun under the auspices of Canadian statesmen.

"There may be Canadians who support the proposal because they expect higher prices for their products. The main anchor of the support coming from the States is that it means one great republic from the Arctic Ocean to the Gulf of Mexico.

"Make no mistake of that. That's the meaning it has for Taft and Hearst, for the two great parties in the United States.

"They may be willing to swallow some of their protectionist views for a political end that aggrandizes their country. They sacrifice their tariff for their country. Sir Wilfred Laurier asks us to sacrifice our country for a tariff. And that makes no the difference in the world."

No Hint of Annexation.

Dr. E. L. Cash, member of Parliament for Saskatchewan, one of the strong figures of Western Canada, said:

"We take it for granted that Mr. Hearst is inspired by the same patriotic motives in advocating reciprocity that moves us. There is no question or thought or hint of annexation. We Liberals are opposed to annexation, and it wouldn't make any difference if Mr. Hearst favored annexation, we would still be opposed to it."

W. E. Knowles, another Western member, said: "I am not surprised that the annexation talk has sprung up as an argument against reciprocity. But the fact that the opposition cries annexation does not indicate it will follow reciprocity. I am not surprised, either, that there is talk of annexation in Washington, even the enthusiastic advocates of reciprocity may use it as an argument, but annexation will be no nearer under reciprocity than it is now."

It is significant that simultaneously with the publication of this story in the Toronto papers the Canadian newspapers of strong Tory character have opened up a cannonade on annexation lines. They tell of the existence at Washington of a strong annexation press bureau, which is credited in dispatches to the Canadian press with the dissemination of pro-annexation material.

Canada's Tory Press Links Taft and Heart in the Building of Annexation Sentiment

From the Toronto News.

"What Mr. Hearst says in the editorials published in this issue discloses the ultimate goal of the American ambition — one flag, the Stars and Stripes, from Central America to the North Pole; for the Hearst papers, however much they may be criticised, express with accuracy, on the whole, the thoughts of the masses of the American people."

From the Toronto World.

"There may be Canadians who support the proposal because they expect higher prices for their products. The mainspring of the support coming from the States is that it means one great republic from the Arctic Ocean to the Gulf of Mexico. Make no mistake of that. That's the meaning it has for Taft and Hearst, for the two great parties in the United States."

CHURCH HUNTS WHITTIER GIRL

Florence E. Whittier's disappearance, just a month ago, to-day, is to-day a mystery as it was on January 15, when she seemed to have vanished from the earth leaving the Congregational school which she attended in Boylston street.

Today, however, renewed energy was given to the search to determine where the seventeen-year-old Ipswich girl is, if she is still living or to find what possible fate may have overtaken her. The Rev. George E. Street, pastor of the Lowell Congregational Church, which the girl attended, has raised through his congregation a substantial purse and employed a Boston detective agency to conduct the search.

Possible Clue in New York.

The family and some of their friends in the church have given to the detectives information that leads to a hunt for Miss Whittier in New York city.

A vague rumor reached the Chicopee police last night that she was visiting relatives there. Someone called the police on the telephone and informed them that the girl was at No. 26 North Front street. An investigation showed that the address was a mistake, or purposely fictitious. There is no such number. The names of the people with whom she was supposed to be staying were not mentioned so that there was no further investigation in that vicinity.

Fund Raised by Church.

Mrs. Gertrude Whittier, widow of Nelson Whittier of No. 113 Springfield street, Chicopee, was interviewed and stated that the efforts of relatives in Ipswich, but that she had never seen any of them.

Miss Whittier was always very active in the work of the congregation at Ipswich, the members of which are now doing much to find her. She was ever ready to help in the church socials and entertainments by which money was raised to defray the expenses of the church or to contribute to charities. Recalling her zeal when among them, her fellow-church members responded generously and spontaneously to the appeal for funds issued by Mr. Sweet, the pastor.

DURGIN HITS AT SCANNELL

Dr. Samuel H. Durgin, chairman of the Board of Health, to-day made an emphatic denial of the charges made by Dr. David L. Scannell before the Civil Service Reform Association, that the medical examination of the public schools was a farce, that the physicians were appointed by "political pull" and couldn't tell one disease from another.

Colonel Bowdoin S. Parker, City Collector, also was commissioned as absolutely false the statements made by former City Collector Courtenay Guild which the present collector thought reflected upon the integrity of his department.

False, Says Parker.

"The statements of Courtenay Guild are so absolutely and utterly false and some so ridiculous as hardly to be worth a reply," said Colonel Parker.

Dr. Scannell's sweeping charges regarding the physicians who conduct the medical inspection of schools were assailed by Dr. Durgin in a statement in which the latter gave information about the school inspection. Dr. Durgin said that the only complaint he had ever received from Dr. Scannell when the latter was a member of the board was a personal one, that the doctors should be given more work to do and more pay.

Dr. Durgin said it was untrue that there is a movement afoot to increase the number of inspecting physicians as a scheme for repaying political debts, as charged by Dr. Scannell. Dr. Durgin said the opposite was true; that instead of increasing, the number will probably be decreased.

"There are now eighty doctors engaged in the medical inspection of schools," said Dr. Durgin. "Each is paid $200 a year. There is hardly any doubt but there is an arrangement between some of the doctors and some of the masters by which a card is displayed in the window to show the physicians when they are needed. Some of the masters think it is not advisable to have doctors call once a day. But the board believes in a daily inspection, and has never sanctioned any arrangement whereby the doctors are signalled when to appear."

Asks for More Funds.

"The board of health has sought to give the doctors more work to do and to pay them reasonably for it. More work for them is necessary and the board has frequently sought appropriations for the increased expenses for medical inspection.

"There is no movement to increase the number of physicians. On the other hand, it has been recommended that the number be lessened to forty, to be paid $1,000 each a year. This recommendation is pending.

"After denouncing the statement of Former Collector Guild, Colonel Parker said to-day:

"If any citizen or any investigating body can find one drunken man in my department I will discharge him immediately. As far as this charge goes about city employes evading paying their poll taxes, this is untrue. Every city employe is compelled to pay. If he doesn't he does not record, then we take it out of his wages.

"Even with the dangerous under Civil Service I do not think the character of the men or the service could be improved. I am not defending conditions when Guild was a collector. But it is pertinent to ask him why the conditions he decries were not remedied when he was in office.

"This department has been investigated more than any other. It has been investigated several times within the past two years."

MRS. E. R. PROCTOR DEAD OF PNEUMONIA

BALTIMORE, Feb. 14.—Mrs. Elizabeth R. Proctor, widow of Joseph Proctor, the chingedian, is dead of pneumonia, at the age of eighty, at the home of her daughter, Miss Ann E. Proctor, in this city. Mrs. Proctor had only been ill about a week. She was educated in Boston.

EX-JUDGE DAY TO HEAD EQUITABLE

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—There is excellent authority for the prediction that at an annual election of officers of the Equitable Life Assurance Society next Thursday, ex-Judge William A. Day, first vice-president of the company, will be chosen president to fill the vacancy made by Paul Morton's death.

GOV. DIX ELUDES A SUFFRAGIST BAND

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—A band of women suffragists made an attempt to hold up and extort a promise of aid from Governor Dix to-day as the Executive was leaving for Albany, but were foiled. The Governor was apprised that the women were waiting at the Grand Central Depot to meet him, so he went through a side entrance, screening himself behind his companions until he got aboard his train. William F. Sheehan, the Tammany candidate for United States Senator, also avoided the women. "I have troubles enough now," he declared. "I am going to win. That is all I can say now."

HELEN KELLER CALLS FOR AID

Her own eyes sightless, but her voice convincing, Miss Helen Keller, the "wonderful blind girl" appealed to-day at the meeting of the Association for Promoting the Interests of the Blind to the people of "The City of Kind Hearts," as she called Boston, for further protection against the ignorance, poverty and unconscious commercial cruelty, which she named as the three greatest causes of blindness.

Herself a living example of what can be done to mitigate the lot of the sightless, her plea for the thousands of afflicted less favored than herself was effective.

The association, meeting in Hunting-ton Chambers Hall Miss Keller said:

How to Save Sight.

I rejoice that the greatest of all work for the blind—the saving of eyesight—has been put before the public. The reports of progress in the conservation of eyes, of health, of life, and of all things precious to man, are as a trumpet blast summoning us to still greater effort. The devotion of physicians and laymen and the terrible needs of our reason-men ought to be enough in the fight against conquerable misery.

The worst here are ignorance, poverty and the unconscious cruelty of our commercial society. They are the causes of blindness above all others. They are causes which destroy the sight of children and workingmen and undermine the health of mankind. So long as these causes prevail, improvement is no long will there be blind and crippled men and women.

To study the diseases and accidents which cause loss of sight, and to learn how the surgeon can prevent or alleviate them, is not enough. We should strive to put an end to the conditions which produce the diseases and accidents.

This case of blindness, the physician says, resulted from ophthalmia. It was really caused by a dark, overcrowded tenement. The indirect hereditary cause was an employer's failure to safeguard his machinery. Investigation will show that there are many dangerous safeguards for machinery which are left unfenced because they add slightly, would diminish the manufacturer's profits. We Americans have been criminally dishonorably slow, in taking measures for the protection of our workmen.

City of Kind Hearts.

Does it occur to any of you that the white lace which we wear is darkened by the dust of the sweat shops? The trouble is that most of us do not understand the essential relation between poverty and disease. I do not believe that there is any one in this City of Kind Hearts who would willingly receive dividends if he knew that they had been paid in part with blinded eyes and broken backs.

If people think that there is any such connection between our prosperity and the sacrifice of little girls, they must have but illuminating reports of industrial commission and factory inspectors. They are less eloquent than orators, but more to the point, and far more convincing than either. In them you will find the fundamental causes of much blindness and undeveloped and shrunken limbs and degraded minds.

These reports should be in every teacher searched out, and every condition in which blindness prevails must be exposed and abolished. Let our battle cry be, "Abolish preventable disease as unnecessary poverty, no blinding ignorance among mankind."

That much blindness is easily preventable and that the State owes it as a duty to itself, from a moral as well as economic and financial standpoint, to aid in the work of prevention, Dr. Park Lewis urged.

Poorly lighted school rooms and too many books are responsible for much of the blindness and ill health of school children, in Dr. Lewis's opinion. Lack of precautions in many factories or poor lighting are responsible for much blindness and also for an inspired efficiency among the workmen. In the majority of cases, Dr. Lewis said the blame of the care and maintenance of the insane could fall on the State and thousands of dollars could be saved if the State would insist upon proper precautions and preventative measures were insisted on.

Try This for Colds

Prescription Known for Results Rather Than Large Quantity.

Go to your druggist and get "Two ounces of Glycerine and half an ounce of Concentrated Pine Compound. Mix these with half a pint of good whiskey. Shake well. Take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bed time. Smaller doses to children according to age. Any one can prepare this at home. This is said to be the quickest cough and cold cure known to the medical profession. He sure to get only the genuine (Globe) Concentrated Pine. Each half ounce bottle comes in a tin screw-top sealed case. If the druggist is out of stock he will quickly get it from his wholesale house. Don't fool with uncertain mixtures. It is risky.

This is one of the oldest remedies known to civilization, but many of the ready-made cough and cold cures contain resins and impurities that cause nausea and other bad after effects. For safety get only the above mentioned.

HELENE PUTNAM, TO BE BRIDE OF H. L. SIGOURNEY

Cupid does not always wait for his targets among the buds in Boston society to become debutantes before unloosing his arrows. His latest victim is Miss Helene Putnam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Putnam, whose engagement to Henry Louis Sigourney is announced today at an informal tea in the home of her parents at No. 321 Beacon street. Miss Putnam has not been presented to society and her debut will not be made for at least two seasons.

Both the Putnam and Sigourney families are leaders in the social set. Mr. Putnam is a Harvard man and a member of several clubs. The family has a residence near Nahant and entertain largely in town during the season. Mr. Sigourney also is a Harvard graduate and is an active young man. He is connected with large mill enterprises in Holyoke. His sisters, the Misses Alice L., Edith, Katherine and Mary Sigourney, are favorites in society.

FOURTH OF JULY SHIP IN HARBOR

Old Doc Groundhog, Mr. Robin Redbreast and all the other harbingers of May Gentle Spring, wobbled back into the lame duck division when they saw the British steamer, Sikh, from Yokohama and Chinese ports, for the Sikhs is the first accredited and official harbinger of Summer to appear this year. She is a Fourth of July ship.

A good part of the Sikh's 6,000-ton cargo puts her right into Class A of Summer harbingers, for if fireworks for the Fourth are not some harbingers the small boy pauses to ask, "What is?"

Way down in the hold of the Sikh is an assortment of fireworks representing the thought and toil of thousands of Chinese brains, and hands, all of which is due to go up in flame and smoke and glittering, vari-colored sparks on The Glorious. Consigned to Boston designed the assortment will be unloaded and taken to gloomy warehouses, to remain until a few days before the Big Noise Day, when the small boy of America will take it his own.

Officers of the Sikh say there are a lot of novelties in the fireworks cargo, but they didn't get a chance to see any of them in action. The Sikh sailed and ran form the rest of the Sikh's freight, and there is rejoicing in Chinatown over the arrival of the tea, even if it didn't get here quite in time for the New Year feasts.

SIMPLE TREATMENT FOR A VELVETY COMPLEXION

Mrs. Mae Martyn, authority on health and beauty, writing for the Los Angeles Examiner, says: "Society women are discarding face powders and cosmetics and taking to liquid preparations, because powder tends to stop up the pores and roughens the skin, ruining a complexion, while a good lotion softens the skin and keeps it in a healthy condit on.

"The lotion most popular in exclusive circles is made of spurmax and is prepared by dissolving 4 ounces of spurmax in ½ pint of hot water, then adding 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. This is much nicer to apply than powder and does not rub off easily. It is inexpensive, and its use soon produces a soft and velvety complexion.

"Women using this recipe find it splendid for rough or oily skins, as it clears as well as beautifies."

WINSOME WINNIE, the GREAT NEW FEATURE of NEXT SUNDAY'S AMERICAN

MELLEN'S PLAN FOR BIG TUNNEL

An expenditure of approximately $25,000,000 is contemplated in a bill filed today for the New Haven and Boston & Maine railroads through the proposed acquirement of the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn railroad, and the Boston & Providence railroad corporation.

The bill was filed with Senate Chairman Blanchard of the legislative Committee on Railroads by William H. Coolidge of counsel for the New Haven and Boston & Maine railroads. There will be a hearing on the bill before the Committee on Railroads on Thursday.

The bill showed in minute detail just what the big Mellen concern would do if it were given the required legislative power. Here are some of the things that are promised:

Benefits North Shore.

Build a two-track tunnel under Boston Harbor.

Connect North and South Stations.

Connect Boston & Maine and Revere Beach road.

Electrify two tracks from Readville to Boston.

Electrify the two tracks in tunnel.

Build two additional tracks from tunnel to Lynn.

Electrify the Revere Beach line to Lynn.

Build four tracks on Boston & Maine between Lynn and Beverly.

Build a four-track tunnel through Salem.

Then electrify as far as Beverly.

Vice-President Byrnes, in discussing what the general result would be following the contemplated changes said:

"The present fares for service from Boston on the Revere Beach route, including the ferry service, would be continued. The only change would be that the road would be operated by electricity instead of steam.

"Passengers would also have the opportunity to use the elevated line which will run from Maverick square to Scollay square if they so desired. The results sought are summed up in the following:

Faster Freight Movement.

Opportunity for use of the Elevated subway tunnel route through to Scollay square.

Additional facilities for reaching the south station, fares to be fixed by the public service commissioners.

Easy and much more rapid movement of freight and passenger business from all parts surrounding Boston.

Making the present and proposed new docks in East Boston more valuable and inducing the development of the business of the port of Boston.

Giving the North Shore, the country's most attractive and desirable Summer resort, a most satisfactory service.

Through service between New York and points north of Boston, on the through trains can be run to the Massachusetts and New Hampshire beaches, White Mountain resorts of the State of Maine and St. Johns, N. B. This through service and many additional trains between Boston and points north and south.

"The Revere Beach & Lynn road is taken into the scheme because its location makes a much better line than the old line of the Eastern Railroad through Lynn, avoiding its many grade crossings, and serving a territory of large business of which, with modern facilities, is susceptible of great development than the business along the line of the old Eastern between Boston and Lynn.

Sees Loss to Public.

"To build another independent line to serve the same territory would not be in harmony with Massachusetts policy and would result in an economic loss which would eventually fall upon the public, while to operate the two would be impossible except on a business to justify the large expenditure necessary."

In reference to the proposed new tunnel, the bill filed today says:

"In the location and construction or said Boston Tunnel, and in the construction or additions made to the Boston & Maine railroad in the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn railroad in East Boston, there shall be had by the Board of Railroad Commissioners and the Boston terminal commission (Joint Railroad Commission), respectively, in approving the same, due requirements of a tunnel connection between the North and South Stations and to the future use of the Commonwealth docks and wharves to be hereafter constructed and to proper connections to be made therewith.

"With the consent of the double commission and of the Boston Elevated Railway Company, or its lessee, and said companies, or any of them, may, in such manner as the double commission may approve, connect the Boston Tunnel with the East Boston Tunnel or with any other tunnel or subways that may be hereafter constructed, and with like consent and approval of the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn Railroad may be connected with said East Boston Tunnel and its said subways or tunnels, so as to run trains upon such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon by the several railroads, the Boston Elevated Railway Company and the said double commission.

CROCKS RIDDLE VICTIM.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 14.—George Florida, a farmer residing near here, was shot to death early today while protecting his property from burglars. After killing Florida the murderers riddled his body with bullets. A posse is in pursuit.

NAT GOODWIN STILL 'WILLING'

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Word came to Nat C. Goodwin yesterday that J. Campbell Thompson, as referee, had decided to recommend that Mrs. Maxine Elliott Goodwin, C. Goodwin, IV, be awarded an interlocutory decree of divorce; that the report would be filed with Justice McCall of the Supreme Court today, and that in about three months Mr. Goodwin would again be free.

The actor had down a stick of grease paint with which he was preparing to appear on the Alhambra stage, and sighed.

"I had great difficulty in losing this case," he remarked. "You see it was a matter of a young woman subject to the whims of spending happiness to break a marriage that she had been persuaded was irksome. Mrs. Goodwin No. IV, or Miss Goodrich, as I most perhaps describe her now, never had one single bit of legitimate evidence against me. Not one woman's name is used in the entire proceedings, and I will pledge my honor to set forth that the name of the young woman in St. Louis with whom I was supposed to have been in love was not mentioned before referee. Nothing could be more remarkable under the circumstances. But I have found that if a woman thinks she is done she is done, and it is useless for him to attempt to hold her.

"This I learned by bitter experience, and as it may seem to the public, the role of defendant in a divorce suit is new to me. I say 'Defendant' you understand, and the records will sustain me. I do not think I should have played the role this time if it had not been that a man to whom I was a friend for sixteen years had turned upon me without cause.

Nat Says He's Domestic.

"Now I want to clear up one or two things. It has been said that perhaps Mrs. Goodrich, my late wife's mother, was responsible for it all. Nothing is further from the truth. I know all about the mother-in-law joke, but in this case it does not apply. Mrs. Goodrich has always a good friend of mine and I believe her to be a good friend of mine to-day. She had nothing whatever to do with it.

"The trouble with my most recent marriage and very many other marriages is that the wife of to-day prefers the electric light to the firelight.

"I may seem funny to you, but I am domestic in my tastes and inclinations. I would stay at home, and I have one, I shall always have one, and I love nothing better than to have my own hearth. I am there whenever I have the opportunity and you can argue if you please, from the fact that I have been so often married that I want a wife at my side, and no one else.

"The young woman of to-day has no time for a hearth or a home. She wants a suite. There is nothing of the clinging vine in her composition. It is the electric lights and the shadows, too; the music, the nerve-wracking strain of metropolitan life. You may take my word for it.

"I ought to know. I have had thirty-five years' experience in matrimony and, confidentially, I am embodying my observations and experiences in a book. The title is to be, 'I Wonder.' It will tell what I know. It should be finished now, but I have been so busy of late on various matters that I have not had the time to put in any serious work.

Not Habit; Only Inspiration.

"I am going to settle a number of things in this little work. I am going to show that matrimony is not a habit with me, but always an inspiration. I have always sought the ideal, and I have sought it honorably; hence my numerous marriages.

"Shall I marry again?—Why not?

"Frankly I have no present idea of a fifth venture, but I would not be so foolish as to say that I shall never try again. I do not know what the morrow may bring forth"—there came a call at the dressing room door and the actor disappeared to delight the audience with the tabloid version of the famous old comedy "Lend Me Five Shillings."

Dissolution of Mr. Goodwin's marriage ties have not caused much excitement on Broadway for some years.

Headlines in the evening papers recalled a few little anecdotes at the Lambs Club and other resorts of the stage folks. The famous Goodwin telegram to DeWolf Hopper on the occasion of the latter's third marriage:

"Congratulations. But remember you are only a piker."

The other was an interview between Mr. Goodwin and William Collier.

"I did not receive an invitation to your wedding," complained Mr. Collier apropos of the Goodwin-Goodrich nuptials.

"Very sorry," replied Mr. Goodwin. Then sympathetically: "Next time, sure."

No alimony is recommended in the referee's report. This is because Mrs. Goodwin, Goodwin, settled a $2,000,000 trust fund placed in trust for her husband, Mrs. Goodrich-Goodwin's 3-year son by a $1,600,000.

"I won't a cent more than $200,000," the actor declares.

FIND THREE BODIES.

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 14.—Life-savers to-day recovered the bodies of three of the seven sailors who were drowned last night when the gasoline schooner Oshkosh was wrecked on the south spit of the Columbia River. Only the captain, Thomas Latham, and three members of the crew of ten were saved.

ST. VALENTINE IN SOUTH END

Alexander I. Peckham, friend of the children, and a lawyer who is more widely known as a doer of kindly deeds, gladdened the hearts of hundreds of children in the South End to-day, when he distributed valentines for each girl and boy for each of the smaller boys. The larger boys were made happy through seeing their tiny brothers and sisters and friends enjoying the day.

It was a real "joy day" throughout the South End. Like another St. Valentine, Lawyer Peckham walked about through the different stores. He knew his section well, for in other years he has gone over the same ground for the same purpose—a visit of spreading happiness to the children to whom February 14 otherwise would mean no more than any other day in the year.

Gifts for 3,300.

Lawyer Peckham started out at 9 o'clock. He will distribute something over 2,000 valentines to-day. To-morrow he will keep up his work, taking in the entire West End, and by to-morrow night, when he expects to finish his task, he will have given valentines to 3,300 children.

Burdened down with six load of valentines Lawyer Peckham looked the real Cupid of perfection save for the uniform being conspicuous by its absence. As the children themselves would express it, in case of their jingles, he "rang the bell, knocked at the door, lifted the latch and walked in." And he was welcome, too, for the sounds of merriment with which he was greeted proved.

The valentines were chiefly artistic Cupids and darted hearts. It was "cheap" day. That was why so many little South End hearts throbbed with a pleasure that was unknown to them when they sighted the well-known figure of the Tremont building lawyer.

All the schools in the South End were visited. White School, the Dearborn street school and all the rest where the pupils are numerous.

All Know Their Friend.

To see Lawyer Peckham was a signal for one chorus of chirping and hurrahs.

"There's Mr. Peckham!" they would all yell. Then there started a rush and a scramble in his direction which no teacher or superintendent could expect to halt. Only sorrow the West End children will get their valentines.

Mr. Peckham is probably the big champion among valentine givers. He is something of a perpetual Kris Kringle to the children of the slums. Not a waif but is his friend. It is his boast that he has never made an enemy among the children. They all love good Mr. Peckham, and by those means he knows the names of most of them.

Mr. Peckham has been for ten years in charge of the Boys' Club of the Hope Church. He is a graduate of Harvard, class of 1882, and is secretary and a trustee of the Newsboys' Club.

Every Summer Mr. Peckham carries his boy and girl friends on excursions into the country.

BOY COASTER DIES AFTER COLLISION

His skull fractured in a crash between a double runner on which he was coasting and a horse, Gustave W. Carlson, nine years old, died in the Cambridge Relief Hospital to-day. The lad was unconscious almost from the time of the accident, which happened yesterday afternoon, until his death. Carlson was the son of Mrs. Emma Carlson of No. 97 Columbia road, Cambridge. He was coasting down Hancock street.

CARRIES FIRE TO FIRE HEADQUARTERS

CHARLESTON, Me., Feb. 14.—S. C. Chandler, a storeman on the Charleston division of the Bangor Railway Company, discovered an empty heater car blazing fiercely. Unaided he took a freight motor from the car barn, coupled to the blazing car and speeding the gong and whistle, hauled the car through the streets of the village to the central fire station and runs on it. The department turned out, but the car was burned to the trucks.

A GOOD SHAMPOO FOR ONLY ONE CENT

"It is hardly believable that women will pay a dollar for a shampoo," says Mae Martyn in the San Francisco Chronicle, "when they can give themselves a better one at home for about one cent. Yet such is true, and invariably women paying the extortionate price have thin, straggly hair.

"Every woman can have fine, glossy hair if she will carefully dissolve a teaspoonful of canthrox in a teacup of hot water. This should be poured over the scalp, and rubbed until it lathers well, then the hair rinsed thoroughly.

"You will find this canthrox shampoo not only restores natural lustre to the hair, but makes the head feel good and banishes itchiness of the scalp. Be sure to get an original package of canthrox."

FOSS PLEADS FOR FAIR TRADE

A strong plea, not only for reciprocity with Canada, but with other nations, and a professional, business-like policy for Massachusetts and the nation, was made by Governor Foss in his speech at the annual dinner of the Bank Officers' Association at Mechanics Building. Lieutenant-Governor Frothingham, whose pledge of support to the Governor from Republicans as well as Democrats, regardless of party, in all his efforts to advance the interests of Massachusetts, aroused applause. Mayor Fitzgerald and the Rev. O. H. P. Gifford were other speakers. Governor Foss said in part:

"The people of the United States have waked up to a recognition of their power, and they promise to use it. It is a difficult thing for the financial powers of America to get far enough away from their stand-pat reactionary attitude to look at this thing in its true light. And yet, political stability is the very foundation of financial stability, and stability in both fields is the basis of all true progress and prosperity. I believe these two points are clear beyond dispute.

A Double Warning.

"First—Our politicians must co-operate with the people in order to arrive at any policy or platform which the people will stand for.

"Second—Our financial powers in order to arrive at any sort of stability must work with the people and stop lobbying against their manifest interests.

"The progressive policy, as I see it, looks steadily toward the future, without once losing sight of the present. It seeks to establish reciprocity with Canada, not only because Canadian reciprocity itself is a wise and helpful measure, but because it is in line with all modern progress. In fact reciprocity with Canada is the issue now demanded on its own merits by the people, and it is the foundation fit to become the foundation of an entire Federal policy for the future.

Start For Fair Trade.

"I urge reciprocity, therefore, as I have urged it for so many years. I urge not only reciprocity but a progressive reciprocity beginning in moderation with a few articles and widening out, year by year, with the further progress of our country, until we have established our entire system of government and finance—trade and commerce—upon the broad principle of exchanging trade concessions with every country with whom we can trade to mutual advantage.

"Other elements of the progressive idea are equally important. It is because the people cannot get their will carried out by a stand-pat Senate, that they have resolved to reorganize the Senate. If Legislatures will not voice the sentiment of the people in electing a man to represent the people, then the people themselves will name their Senator, not in anger or spite, but simply to get their own sovereign will obeyed. For the same reason, the people look to the progressive movement to establish the direct primary, the recall, the referendum and the initiative.

Best Policy For All.

"The financial powers of this country have their greatest assurance in this progressive platform. Why? Because reciprocity gives us all the best there is in free trade—and all the protection that we are entitled to. Because it is conservation in the broadest sense, safeguarding not only our natural resources, but the markets for our manufactured products also.

"It is the policy which has built up our transportation system—the pride of our own State, and is the only policy which will strengthen and broaden them. It is also the only kind of subsidy which will ever fill the shops, both coming and going. It is the only true policy of reconciling of our best customer. It is fair trade."

JURY VISITS DEATH SCENE

some time with his wife and children. Mrs. Cusumano refused to look at the body when she was called to identify it. Mascioli failed to identify it.

The government contends that the identity was established without a question of a doubt. It is understood the defense will try to show that the body found on the beach was not that of Cusumano.

The deputies who made the trip to-day with the jury were Earl P. Blake of Brockton, Joseph Collingwood of Plymouth, Edward Witham of Middleboro and George Hersey of Whitman.

Mascioli Makes Jokes.

Mascioli sat in the prisoner's dock calmly viewing each talesman as he was summoned, his dark eyes taking in every motion, while Mrs. Cusumano appeared somewhat disconcerted at being the centre of all eyes. Mascioli chatted and even joked with the deputies during the intermissions.

The prosecution is represented by District Attorney Albert F. Parker and Assistant District Attorney Frederick G. Katzman, while William J. Congdon and Thomas J. Grady, the latter of Boston, will conduct the defence.

Those who will pass judgment on the case follow: 1, Thomas F. Cummings, blacksmith, of Brockton; 2, Oscar F. Campbell, of Brockton, a shoe machine operator; 3, George H. Place, real estate agent of Middleboro; 4, Joseph Carver, clerk, Middleboro; 5, Clarence Gilmore, inspector; 6, John A. Livingston, cabinet maker, Brockton; 7, Richard H. Kelley, mason, Middleboro; 8, Thomas W. Bailey, shoe cutter, Kingston; 9, Edward Baker, clerk, Marshfield; 10, William B. Burr, clerk, Hingham; 11, Joseph H. Whitney, real estate dealer, Hanson (foreman); 12, William C. Hathaway, plumber, Kingston.

Hard to Pick Jury.

The present trial is the first Plymouth has had in ten years for murder. The opening day was marked by few dramatic incidents. Unusual difficulty was met in drafting the jury. There were frequent challenges from counsel for the defendants. In all 130 talesmen were examined before the twelve jurors who will decide the fate of Mrs. Cusumano and Mascioli. Of the total number of 118 veniremen was exhausted before the tenth juror could be had. Judge Schofield then ordered the tenth venire drawn, and 12 more, 22 were thirty-four of these. Twelve of them were examined before the full jury was completed. The jurors taken from the traverse panel were William R. Burr, clerk, Hingham; Joseph B. White, real estate, Hanson; William C. Hathaway, plumber, Kingston.

Of those who took oath they could not serve, John R. Davidson, a Hull carpenter, said he could not listen impartially to the evidence because he had seen Mrs. Cusumano. Benjamin H. Freed, a farmer of Kingston, declared that he would not vote to put a woman to death.

While the jury was being selected, the two principals in the case were present in the court room. Mrs. Cusumano had been brought over by Deputy Sheriff Albert L. Simmons, and was seated to the left of the counsel table, while in charge of Deputy Sheriffs John Condon and John Turner inside the prisoner's cage.

PROVIDENCE BAKER ENDS LIFE WITH GAS

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 14.—John Ferguson, one of the best known bakers in Providence, was killed by gas at No. 72 Dorchester avenue, Olneyville. Mrs. Emily Smith found the body. It was declared by the medical examiner to be a case of suicide.

Our Political Postoffice

John Wanamaker was Postmaster General; Senator Boies Penrose is chairman of the great Postoffice Committee of the United States Senate; Thomas H. Carter, Senator from Montana, has served many years on that committee.

No three men in the United States are better versed in postoffice affairs and needs than these.

On February 9, 1911, the Senate Postoffice Committee, under the leadership of Senators Penrose and Carter, reported favorably to the Senate for action the Postoffice Appropriation bill, containing a provision, put in without allowing public hearing or open consideration, but under political pressure from the White House, that increases the postage rate on magazines and periodicals to such an extent that it practically absorbs all the profits of the publishing business of the country and makes the further production of popular-priced magazines impossible. It imposes a tax that is confiscatory.

Notwithstanding, within the year Senator Boies Penrose said, referring to the Carter-Weeks bill:

> "These are some of the big features of the bill. The whole intent is to systematize and to modernize the entire postal system. It is idle to take up such questions as apportioning the cost for carrying second-class mail matter or the proper compensation of railroads for transporting the mails until we shall have established business methods in postoffice affairs by a reorganization of the whole postal system.
> "The commission unanimously recommended the passage of the projected bill. Personally I have been very much interested in all the details and, of course, am heartily in favor of the changes to be made."

Senator Carter said last March:

> "But I must forego further pursuit of details. The bill was cordially approved by Postmaster General Meyer and his assistants, and likewise has the approval of Postmaster-General Hitchcock. It failed of passage during the last Congress owing to lack of time for its proper consideration, but I have reintroduced the bill, which is now designated Senate 6287, Second Session, Sixty-first Congress. The Committee on Postoffices and Postroads will favorably report the bill to the Senate, and it should be enacted into law before the close of this session. I believe not only that it will increase efficiency, but that, after the expense of installation is absorbed, it will result in such economies in the administration of the department and service as will ere long wipe out the deficiency. In operating under it the department will be able with almost unerring certainty to determine the actual cost of each service performed, thereby reaching a sound basis for legislation such as is neither available nor obtainable under the present system.
> "I deeply sympathize with the earnest desire of the department officials to get rid of the deficiency they are faced to encounter each year, but I submit that the first real movement toward that end must begin with the substitution of a modern, up-to-date business organization for the existing antiquated system, which rests upon a few sections of law enacted in 1835, supplemented by statutory fragments added from time to time since that year."

John Wanamaker said recently:

> "With Mr. Hitchcock's suggestion, however, there will be no general agreement. The magazines are supported, not by the price paid for the magazine by the readers, but by the advertisers.
> "In a sense, magazines are private concerns; but they have a public function to perform—an educational function. To tax the advertisements is to tax the quality of the educational matter contained in the pages, for the advertisements enable the publishers to pay high prices for literature and educational articles. The price paid for a magazine does not pay for the printing and the paper. If Mr. Hitchcock's suggestion should become part of the President's plan it would mean that the public would suffer in the loss of much educational material that the publishers then would be unable to buy."

We urge every friend of honest politics, economical government and a free press to telegraph or write an immediate protest to their Senators and Representatives at Washington.

WANTED SLATER DECREE SECRET

WORCESTER, Feb. 14.—Sherman H. Whipple of Boston, counsel for Mrs. Mabel Hunt Slater in her fight to have the decree for the sale of the Slater mills restricted so that the transaction will not be made for the present trustees, charges that one of them is "confessedly interested."

He also charges that the sale of securities was negotiated through a colorless petition brought by the trustees for instructions from the court as to whether the decree could be issued unknown to the testamentary guardian.

He said that last June Mrs. Slater entered into an agreement whereby the present trustees, Captain Amos Barlett of Webster and Congressman Charles G. Washburn and Frank Bulkeley Smith of Worcester were to retire, but that under the terms of the case she is left without being able to have a single thing heard.

The petitioners asked for an order which would permit them to proceed with the hearing regarding the removal of the trustees and that the trustees be given no authority regarding negotiations before the full charges had been heard.

William E. Sibley of Worcester, guardian ad litem of the Slater children, produced letters from Frank Bulkeley Smith, Congressman Washburn and T. Hovey Sage, and letters were also produced by Mr. Smith in connection with the negotiations.

A question regarding the admittance of some of the letters as evidence was raised and the court declared a recess to enable counsel to confer as to what letters should go in.

EMBEZZLER SUSPECT WILLING TO TELL ALL

DANVILLE, Ill., Feb. 14.—Hardy H. Whitlock, who was indicted last week for embezzling funds he was returned to Danville from Detroit in the custody of Sheriff Shepard. He gave bond. Mr. Whitlock said he had received no subpoena to appear before the Grand Jury, but if one was served he would gladly go and would answer truthfully and fearlessly every question put to him.

AFTER-EFFECTS OF ACUTE FEVERS

It Was Not Until He Tried the Tonic Treatment That His Health Was Restored.

Many whose health has been wrecked by an attack of typhoid, scarlet or malarial fever or of the grip, will be interested in the manner in which one sufferer found relief from the condition in which the acute attack left him. Mr. D. A. Kephart, now living at No. 211 Richmond street, Brooklyn, N. Y., says:

"About six years ago I had typhoid fever while working in a lumber camp near Altoona, Pa. The disease left my bowels in such a condition that the doctors told me I could not be cured. My bowels were inactive and bloated. I had to take strong laxatives all of the time but even that did not give me relief. My appetite was good but what I ate distressed me. I was dizzy and frequently would topple over while walking along the street.

"I was treated by several doctors and tried many kinds of medicines but nothing helped me until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I gave them a good trial with the result that my bowels became regular. My blood soon became in good condition and I have been well ever since."

The symptoms shown when the health is wrecked by the attack of an acute disease differ in almost every case but the condition in ones which calls emphatically for a tonic for the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best medicine for this purpose for they act directly on the blood which they cleanse of all impurities.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured anemia, rheumatism, sciatica, nervousness, after-affects of the grip and fevers, and neuralgia, owing to their blood building property. These pills were originally a prescription used in the doctor's private practice and their benefit to mankind has been increased many thousand-fold by their being placed on general sale with the doctor's own directions for use.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

MISS LONGYEAR OF BROOKLINE, LAWYER'S BRIDE

MISS JUDITH F LONGYEAR

MISS LONGYEAR A BRIDE TO-DAY

A pretty marriage of interest to society people in several cities was solemnized at noon when Miss Judith Folger Longyear, youngest daughter of John M. Longyear, reputed to be the wealthiest man in Massachusetts, became the bride of John M. Richardson, a New York lawyer. The ceremony and reception took place in the Longyear mansion on Fisher Hill, Brookline, Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann, rector of Trinity Church, officiated.

Miss Longyear was attended by Miss Helen Longyear, her sister; Miss Margaret Giena of New York and Miss Margery Allen of Marquette, Mich. The home was elaborately decorated. Handsome gifts were received by the bride.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Thomas of Paris, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Sturrow of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hurrall of Mexico, Dr. and Mrs. Longyear and Miss Margaret Longyear of Lansing, Mich. Other guests included members of the fashionable set in Boston and New York.

After an extended honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Richardson will make their home in New York.

GEN. PETER LEARY DIES IN BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, Feb. 14.—Brig.-Gen. Peter Leary, Jr., U. S. A., retired, is dead at his home here.

General Leary was born in Baltimore in 1840. He entered the army as a volunteer private in 1862 and served throughout the Civil War with distinction. After the war he served in the West and was brevetted captain for gallant conduct in action against Indians. He was in charge of an artillery station in Florida during the Spanish-American War and was appointed brigadier-general on July 7, 1904, upon his retirement from active service.

The Harvard team will be as follows: T. R. Schonmaker, A. G. Johnson, F. P. Beerly, C. S. Hindley and R. R. Cook. The Pennsylvania team will include a Chinamen, the squad being composed of Whitaker, Weimar, Teitelbaum, Benjamin, Barsky, Hennyey and Sze. Pennsylvania will stop at New Haven Saturday evening for a match with Yale.

DENY BETROTHAL TO NOVELIST PHILLIPS

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 14.—Mrs. F. M. Wise of Roland Park, a fashionable suburb of Baltimore, at whose home the late David Graham Phillips was always a welcome guest, has denied a cable item from her daughter, Miss Eleanor Wise, now in Paris, describing reports of her recent serious illness. It has been rumored that Miss Wise was suffering from heart trouble caused by shock over Mr. Phillips's tragic death. Members of the family insist that there was no engagement between her and the novelist.

CONSTABLE CROSS MAKES ANOTHER RAID

NARRAGANSETT PIER, Feb. 14.—Constable John G. Cross, who raided the gambling club here last Summer and two weeks ago cleaned out James McAdett's club near Peacedale, made another visitation, assisted by two students from the East Greenwich Academy, Kolbe Curtice and Perry Burdick. Cross raided the store on Main street, Wakefield, of which Silas G. Wright is the reputed proprietor. Cross arrested Wright on a misdemeanor charge. Liquor was found in the place, Cross says.

LOCKHART SALE AT HOUGHTON'S BIG SUCCESS

So large is the crowd taking to the big "Lockhart" sale at the Houghton & Dutton Company that several times yesterday it closed the doors and would not admit any more for fear of a panic. From the bottom to the top floor, the various departments were thronged from the opening hour in the morning. The present sale, the semi-annual Mill End Sale conducted by this big store, is one of the best ever.

Mr. Lockhart himself is now in the country "Mill Ending" and his presence is creating quite a stir. He stated today that the interest in the sale is going to be a record breaker. All piece goods have been cut, split goods are selling at mill-end cost.

Mr. Lockhart conducts the sales at Houghton & Dutton Company in August and again in February. It was twelve or thirteen years ago that he inaugurated the idea of mill-end sales. Since that time he has traveled in all parts of the country. He attends to all the sales in person. Yesterday he addressed crowds of customers, and moved from department to department, telling them of the bargains on floors about them. His will gives his talks a quality that is more than one of salesmanship—it is like hearing a lecture.

The material for the big sale which is going on today and tomorrow has been secured by him during his travels throughout the country. His methods are curious. Mr. Lockhart is established to shape the sentiment of mill end goods and such bargains that the goods can be retailed at next prices. He presents the mill end goods as "Washington's Birthday." The likelihood is that there won't be any Washington's Birthday sales, but the bargains particularly are finding favor with the buyers at the bargain counters. Everybody else is for that matter. And as a result, the sale is—well, some sale.

YOUNG REID TO WED SECRETARY

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The engagement of Miss Helen Miles Rogers, daughter of Mrs. Benjamin Talbot Rogers of Racine, Wis., to Ogden Mills Reid, son of Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, is announced. It is also announced that the wedding will take place before Mr. and Mrs. Reid return to London. The young couple are expected to accompany the ambassador and his wife to Europe immediately after their marriage.

Back of the engagement, which is just announced, is a pretty romance. Miss Rogers comes from an old Wisconsin family and is a graduate of Barnard College. She is of literary bent, and immediately after her graduation entered the employ of Mrs. Reid as secretary. Although technically an employe, Miss Rogers was really one of the Reid family and soon made friends rapidly both in this city and London.

Young Mr. Reid, after leaving college, began working as a reporter. He and Miss Rogers had many tastes in common, and their growing intimacy was noted and commented on by their mutual friends. The announcement of their engagement does not come as a surprise to those close to them.

Mr. Reid is a graduate of Yale University and of the Yale Law School. He is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, the Union League Club and the Union Club.

His engagement to Miss Rogers has the sanction and approval of his parents. The wedding will take place some time in March.

Miss Rogers was born in Appleton, Wis., where her mother now resides. She is a graduate of the Appleton School and of the seminary of that city. Her parents have but moderate means and have never figured in society life in Appleton. Miss Rogers attracted much attention in Wisconsin because of her writings and public speaking. Her brother was one of the star football players of the country. In 1898 he enlisted for service in the war with Spain, when Informed That the list had been closed he went along as company cook.

JOCKEY LEAVES $371,710.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—The will of the late Tom Loates, the jockey, has been proved at $371,710, the largest fortune ever left by a professional jockey. It is $40,000 more than was left by Fred Archer.

Business Success Through Publicity No. 49

Why Salesmen Who Sell Advertised Goods to Merchants Should Talk Advertising

Business fails naturally into two great branches—production and distribution. Without production there could be no distribution, but without distribution goods would gather dust on the factory floor or be uncalled for at the store.

Advertising is the oil which lubricates the machinery of distribution. The salesman, therefore, who sells an advertised line should explain how advertising will help the dealer to sell his goods.

"We not only put our goods on your shelves," said a salesman recently, "but we help you to get them out of your store. We send a little salesman into the homes of your prospective customers, that sits down at their library table and tells them how desirable our goods are and directs them to go to your store and ask for them."

The merchant sat up and took notice. "Advertising goes as depaled to me that way," said he.

"Really," went on the salesman, "advertising of the right kind is nothing more nor less than a kind of sales-insurance for the merchant, which the wise manufacturer always takes out. It stands to reason that if we go out to tell people about our goods in your locality you can sell your goods faster. We help your clerks to turn over your goods the faster, because we do the explaining outside of your store, thereby saving the clerk's time."

The merchant was interested. "What's more," went on the salesman, "there is a quality about most advertised goods that unmarked goods do not have to have. Advertised lines are known and any deviation from a high standard is a reflection against their sale. So if you really want to deal in standard goods an advertised line is always the best."

The man made his sale.

Advertising is making people turn to your goods and the quickest and best way to achieve this is by resorting to the local newspaper, the newspaper that department stores use, that enterprising merchants use, the paper of largest circulation.

The Boston American has a larger circulation than any other paper in the New England field. It reaches more of the people buying public than any other medium. The manufacturer who uses it for the benefit of the stores that carry his goods in the Metropolitan section of New England will find it easier for merchants to sell the goods.

CAREY NAMED AS LAWRENCE CHIEF

LAWRENCE, Feb. 14. — For the first time in more than five months, since ex-Mayor White, a number of aldermen and former Fire Chief James A. Hamilton went to prison in connection with the Lawrence graft cases, the city has a head of the fire department. He is Dennis E. Carey, one of the best known fire fighters in the country. He took charge of the department today, following his appointment last night by Mayor Cahill and confirmation by the Board of Aldermen. Members of the fire department predict that he will make an excellent chief.

Chief Carey is the first Lawrence boy to hold the job as chief of the fire department. His wife was born in 1869 and has been in the department since 1891, when he became a call man. In 1893 he became a permanent member of the department and was appointed to a captaincy in 1897, going to Engine 2. Two years later when the city built the largest fire station in the United States Carey was transferred to the new quarters as captain in charge of the big apparatus.

Carey has a national reputation as an inventor of fire fighting apparatus. The Carey nozzle, the product of his inventive genius, is used everywhere in this country. The "quick hitch" used in every fire station in America is also his invention. He has patented a number of other devices now used by firemen. He is a member of the State Firemen's Association and at the last meeting read a paper favoring an eight hour day for firemen.

3,000 MINERS STRIKE AT BRITISH COLLIERY

SUNDERLAND, Eng., Feb. 14.—Three thousand miners at the Wearmouth colleries struck today without notice. All traffic upon the river Wear and the rail roads leading from Sunderland is paralyzed. The strikers have placed pickets about the mouths of the mines. Although there has been dissatisfaction among the miners and the employers for some time the men did not indicate that they intended to strike summarily. It is feared that the strike will spread to other districts and that up the vast coal mining district Durham, York and Cumberland counties.

WOMAN TRAINER IS WOUNDED BY LEOPARD

BALTIMORE, Feb. 14.—Miss Pauline, a member of the troupe with Joseph D. Ferrari's trained leopards, was brought to Baltimore on the steamer Florida today from Norfolk, en route to Harrisburg, Pa., the Winter quarters of the troupe, where she will receive hospital treatment for many wounds, inflicted by a leopard with which she had an encounter last Monday night. Miss Pauline is said to be in a very dangerous condition.

MOTHER-IN-LAW IS BLAMED BY MRS. LORD

Mrs. Walter B. Lord, who has sued parents-in-law, and her child.

ARNOLD GIRL HERE A WEEK

All clews in the search for Miss Dora Arnold of New York, it developed today, were furnished by a clandestine visit of the missing heiress to Boston on September 19, at which time she was almost constantly in the company of George S. Griscom, Jr., the wealthy Pittsburg machine, who announces his willingness to marry the girl, for an entire week.

Though the Arnold family disapproved of Griscom's attentions to the girl, as being forty years and she twenty-five, while they were at their Summer home at York Beach, Me., and the Griscoms at Nantasket, Miss Arnold slipped off to this city and occupied a suite at the Hotel Lenox, which had been engaged for her in advance by Griscom. During the week that she was in Boston, Griscom registered as the Essex, but it is said that he spent most of his time in entertaining Miss Arnold.

Arnold Found Clew in Boston.

John W. Arnold, brother of the girl, in the course of a private hunt for his sister, found that she had given as her reason for visiting Boston that she wished to see a girl chum who had been at Bryn Mawr College with her. This young woman told Mr. Arnold that his sister had called to see her, but that she had not been at her home. The hotel clews then sent young Arnold in haste to Florence, Italy, where it is reported that after hot words he knocked Griscom down and took from his pocket a letter from Miss Arnold.

The day before Miss Arnold arrived in Boston and registered at the Lenox Griscom went to that hotel, where he is well known, and said that a friend was coming to town for a few days and that he wished to engage a good room with bath for her. The reservation was made and the next day, September 19, Miss Arnold arrived, escorted by Griscom. She registered in her own name as Miss Arnold and remained until September 24.

Every day of her stay at the Lenox Griscom was a caller, not only once, but usually twice and sometimes three times. He was usually early evening, while he and Miss Arnold dined together, usually at the Lenox, but sometimes at other places, and on a number of occasions they were out during the evening and would not open their rooms that they had been to the theatre. They returned to the hotel at an hour which lent an air of probability to the theatre story, for it was never much after 11 o'clock when they came in.

At the Lenox Carlos B. Roomer, one of the proprietors of the hotel, admitted that he knows Griscom well and that he was on several occasions been a guest at the hotel, but he did not appear very anxious to discuss the facts connected with Miss Arnold's stay.

Mr. Roomer said he was away in September and could have no personal knowledge of the matter under inquiry.

It was also learned that instead of taking a room for himself at the Lenox, as has long been his custom when in New England on automobile or other trips, Griscom in September stayed at the Essex, but he spent little more time there than was necessary for him to do his sleeping, most all the other parts of the day and evening he was in company with Miss Arnold.

Angry at Notoriety.

Griscom is still at Atlantic City, where he has stated that though he does not know where Miss Arnold is, he expects at any time to receive a letter or telegram from her. Angry at the notoriety of the case and at his son's talks with newspaper men, Griscom, Sr., has engaged Roger O'Mara, the famous Pittsburg detective, to take charge of his son's interest in the matter, and it is declared that young Griscom is virtually a prisoner in his room at the Hotel Chalfonte, not being permitted to give out any more interviews. O'Mara, who was once chief of detectives in Pittsburg, after getting the full history of the disappearance from the elder, said he agreed with Deputy Commissioner of Police Flynn of New York that the girl is not dead.

The counselor of Harry Thaw spent hours conferring with the elder Griscom, and was made the absolute confidant of the son, and from the present the only statements from the Griscoms will be made through O'Mara.

The junior Griscom has not been out of the hotel since 5 p. m. Saturday. No one can converse with him, he cannot even get a telephone message. Even his mail is handed to his father.

Young Wife Asks $25,000 Damages from Her Husband's Parents.

Miss Rose Elvira S. Lord, the young wife of Walter B. Lord of Melrose, blames her mother-in-law, Mrs. George B. Lord, for the trouble which has arisen between her and her husband, resulting in young Mrs. Lord suing her husband's parents on a charge of alienating his affections.

The young wife and mother—she has a baby five months old—asks $25,000 damages from her parents-in-law, for whom she worked as a domestic for two years before she married their son.

Mrs. Walter B. Lord declares it a case of "too much mother-in-law." She said today:

"I have given Walter and his family a fair trial and can stand it no longer. Why, I have never received a cent from either Walter or his parents, and, since the baby was born last September, I have had to depend upon the charity of my relatives and good friends in order to get food and shelter for my child and myself."

Same Old Story.

"It's all Mrs. Lord's fault, anyway—just the old story of too much mother-in-law. I worked in the Lord household for nearly two years before I went to Nashua on the the 14th of January, 1910, and married Walter.

"During that time I refused him three times and threatened to leave the house if he didn't stop pulling attentions to me. As soon as Mrs. Lord found out that we were married she began to make trouble and in three months I had to leave Walter's home and go to Malden, where I went to work for Mrs. Millikon, where I remained until I had to go to the Dorchester Hospital, where my baby was born scarcely five months ago.

"I have never seen Walter since I left Mrs. Millikon's, but I am pretty sure that he is not very far away.

Bridegroom Is Twenty.

"I think that Walter's father would be willing to provide for his grandson and me, and that he wouldn't care to separate us for life, but then it's just as I told you before—it's a case of too much motherin-law."

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Lord live on East Emerson street, Melrose. Walter, the son, is twenty years old. His wife is twenty-four. They eloped to Nashua last January.

Mrs. Walter B. Lord was formerly Miss Rose Elvira Skoglind, a native of Sweden. After the marriage the couple did not tell the husband's parents till May. Then the young bride left her husband's home.

AMHERST MEN WILL GO TO PATAGONIA

The biological department of Amherst College is to send an expedition to Patagonia to collect fossils and other biological material and for captorial purposes. The party, consisting of two undergraduates and Professor F. B. Loomis, will leave about July 1st and will be in the field through the Summer and Fall, returning in time for the second semester of college work, about February 1.

PRINCESS HERE FOR BRAINY MAN

Delightfully parading her quest for the brainiest man in America, Princess Vilma Lnoff Parisphy of Hungary, has arrived in Boston and will look over this city as the most promising field for her self-imposed stay in the United States in the role of a modern feminine Diogenes. Incidentally she will visit Mrs. John L. Gardner.

To aid her in her pursuit of the brainiest American the Princess has unlimited wealth and unusual beauty and talent. She is a guest at the Hotel Lenox, where she and her retinue and pets occupy the entire first floor. Princess Parisphy has been called the Mrs. Jack Gardner of Europe. She is the most picturesque woman in continental Europe, and the daughter of a noble Hungarian house. She was married to a Russian noble, is very wealthy and cultured, and is renowned both as a beauty and a singer. She is also famous for her portraits of great men, her ambition being to paint only the brainiest men in each country. In America she has done the portraits of Cardinal Gibbons, Thomas A. Edison, General Daniel E. Sickles, Joseph H. Choate and Edwin Markham.

Spends Money Freely.

The Princess created interest during her first visit to America by her lavish expenditures and the unusual number of servants and pets with which she has traveled. Gorgeously liveried servants, her own physician, secretaries and pets which included young wolves, an ibis from Egypt, owls, lizzon and young alligators.

In her first visit to the United States two years ago the Princess spent more than $200,000 during a year's stay, but on her brought over letters of credit for $1,000,000 she did not have to worry about her return ticket. Her suite of the Hotel Plaza in New York is said to have cost her $25,000 during her stay. She travels on a special, and it aroused curiosity at the Hamiltonian avenue yards today.

The Princess recently was entertained in New York by Mrs. Gardner and her visit here is in a way a return for the attentions lavished on her by the noted Boston woman.

Art Her Diversion.

The Princess Parisphy was born at Hajdu-Darog, Hungary, in 1865. From her earliest youth she displayed a taste and gift for painting. When fifteen she was sent to Munich to study art. She became a pupil of the famous Franz von Lenbach, and by his advice made a specialty of portrait painting. Eight years after her arrival in Munich she painted a portrait of Louis Kossuth, which made her famous throughout her native land. In Vienna and Buda-Pest, where she had studios, she was offered so much patronage, and soon the name of Lvoff Parisphy was attached to portraits in many of the best houses. But she settled in Berlin in 1887, believing the German capital the best field for her work. A portrait of Windthorst, the Little Excellency, and a study of the undisputed leader of the Center party, added for her the golden medal at the annual Berlin exhibition in 1890. Since then her efforts have been numerous.

Miss. Parisphy is a favorite in Berlin. She is an ideal type of the Hungarian woman—modern-day tall, with regular features, a brunette with great dark eyes and raven black hair. In addition to her gifts as an artist in colors, she has a beautiful voice, which has been cultivated under the best teachers.

A VALENTINE.

To the Hall Room Boys from their landlady.

WOMEN HEAR JANE ADDAMS

Miss Jane Addams, the noted sociologist and head of Hull House, the famous "settlement" house in Chicago, is in Boston for a few days and is being welcomed with open arms by social workers of this city. Miss Addams plunged into a whirl of activity soon after her arrival. At 11 o'clock she went to the Elizabeth Peabody house, No. 87 Poplar street, as the guest of the Boston Social Union at its monthly meeting. She made a brief informal address after her introduction by Robert A. Woods of the South End House, president of the union, and remained to the luncheon which follows the meetings.

After luncheon Miss Addams held an informal reception to settlement workers of the city and then went to the Twentieth Century Club, joining in the discussion on "Problems of the Modern School Teacher." Her travelling companion, Mrs. Browne was to have taken part in this discussion but was ill. This evening Miss Addams speaks before the School Voters' League in Jacob Sleeper Hall, Boylston and Exeter streets, on "Woman and the State." To-morrow afternoon she speaks in Dennison house and in the evening will attend the Religious Educational Association meeting in Providence.

NEW HOME FOR COOPER UNION

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Cooper Union, the popular free educational institute of New York, will have a new home. At a banquet of the alumni it was announced that $140,000 had been contributed by graduates to erect a new building. The site selected is that of the old Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, near the present institute building, at Third avenue and Seventh street.

RICH STUDENT'S HARD WORK TEST

Reeking with the aroma of cows and horses, with aching back and calloused hands, Colin McRae Makepeace, son of a wealthy Providence family, and a student at Harvard, is back in his luxurious rooms in Hampden Hall, Cambridge, after a week spent in work—regular work—part of which time he was general utility man in a livery stable in Concord.

Assiduously massaging his calloused fingers and palms with cold cream and roughly ordinating the extra cost of manicuring, Mr. Makepeace made this pronouncement:

"Not much to this horny-handed son of toil stuff after all. It means too early rising, too hard beds, too long hours and too little salary for little Colin. Honest, I'm sorry for the poor darlin may have to do it. No, there was nothing sociological in my little stunt and I don't plan to do any muckraking about the 'Shame of Our Livery Stables,' or anything like that, even if I did rake a little muck now and then. I just wanted to see if I could go out and earn my own living if I had to, and discovered that I could, even if it wasn't a very easy living."

Makepeace says he went to Concord and secured a couple of meals and a bed shoveling snow. Then he took a job in a livery stable and for four days swept out stalls, curried the horses and, now and then, kept away anyone from twelve to fourteen hours a day. It wasn't nice work and the pay didn't add to any extent, but young Mr. Makepeace is happy in the thought that he has shown he can get the cots and the hay by working for them.

Meanwhile much perfume is being used in Hampden Hall.

MOTHER SUPERIOR GUEST IN BOSTON

Priests, sisters and school children joined in paying homage to the reverend mother of the Sisters of Notre Dame at the Notre Dame Parochial School of St. Peter and Paul's Church, West Broadway, South Boston. The reverend mother, who is the superior of the order all over the world, the mother house being in Belgium, is visiting the chief of the order in this country, having recently come from San Francisco. To-day she is visiting St. Augustine's parish.

ARREST MASON ON THEFT CHARGE

William O. Wiley, a business man, with offices at No. 75 State street, is under arrest, charged with the larceny of $2,000 from the Henry Price Lodge of Masons from the Henry Price Lodge of Masons of Thompson square, Charlestown. Wiley is fifty-four years old and is known in Masonic circles.

"IT WAS RECOMMENDED TO ME BY MY DOCTOR"

The Reason Why Many People Take Father John's Medicine.

When Mrs. C. H. Dunkel of 33 Linden street, Reading, Pa., was asked why she took Father John's Medicine, for her cough, she replied: "It was recommended by my doctor." The same question was asked and a similar answer returned by the following:—Mrs. A. E. Hixon, 39 Larkin street, Bangor, Me., Henry F. Villet, 25 Crown street, Meriden, Conn.; Frank Poff, Hallam, Pa.; Miss Catherine Boyle, 45 Blackburn street, Fairhaven, Mass.; Charles L. Brown, Irving, Ill., as well as a great many others.

Physicians, hospitals and other institutions all over the world endorse the merits of Father John's medicine because they know of its history and curative power.

It cures colds, coughs and throat and lung troubles in the natural way by driving the impurities out of the body and at the same time its pure food elements make flesh and strength for those who are weak and run down. Not a patent medicine but a doctor's prescription, free from alcohol and poisonous drugs in any form. Get a bottle today.

BIG STICK FOR LAW MAKERS

To-day and to-night are given over by the Judiciary and Labor Committees of the Legislature to consideration of the several big measures prescribed by organized labor. The hearings began at 10:30 a. m. and ran until 1 p. m., when the Senate and House met, are continued at 3 p. m. after Senate and House are adjourned, are suspended during a recess for supper, and go on again to-night at 7 p. m.

The matters considered are:

Anti-Injunction.

Peaceful persuasion.

Workmen's compensation for personal injuries.

Anti-blacklisting of labor men by employers.

Right of unions to impose and collect fines.

Senate President Allen T. Treadway gave everybody at the State House a surprise by going into the hearing room and censuring the recess legislative Committee on Workmen's Compensations for recommending delay in the enactment of legislation for another year instead of bringing in a bill to clear up the situation this year. President Treadway was intimated, since his boom for the Governorship censorship was launched, that he might do some startling things this year in the way of pro-labor and anti-corporation votes, but to-day's action was the first real sign that he intends to carry out that plan.

John Weaver Sherman, legislative agent for the State branch, American Federation of Labor, conducted organized labor's side of the hearing. He, too, criticised the recess committee for not reporting a workmen's compensation bill this year.

The hearing was held in Room 240, the largest committee room of the State House. Nearly one hundred labor men were present.

VERMONT WOMAN DIES AT AGE OF 105

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., Feb. 4.—Mrs. Mary McCaffrey is dead at the age of 105. She was born in Ireland and did not know her exact age, but by comparison with the ages of friends and relatives who came from the same parts of Ireland she knew she was at least 105.

She came to America when a girl and lived in Canada, at North Thetford and Blake Lake, P. Q., until eight years ago, when she came to St. Johnsbury to live.

ASKS FOSS AID IN TAX REFORM

Declaring that he has just begun his campaign for the taxation of unearned increment, Mayor Fitzgerald has sent to Governor Foss an appeal to the latter to do his part, because the Mayor believes time and the evil are both pressing. In the course of his appeal to the Governor the Mayor says:

"In many cases farms and uncultivated areas of comparatively valueless land have increased in value a thousand fold during the last fifty years and the former owners of these descendants have become immensely wealthy without any exertion on their part.

"The difficulty is in finding a constitutional way of assessing such a tax so as to have it proportional and bear equally upon all persons who have benefited by this unearned gain. Among the plans that have been suggested for such a tax are, First, taxing the real estate when it is sold; second, that a valuation should be made of all real properties in a city or town every ten years and if at the end of ten years a piece of real estate was found to have increased in value more than 10 per cent. above the cost of improvement on it and betterments, the owner should pay a tax in proportion to the amount of that gain; third, that if it was found at the end of ten-year periods that the rent received for the property had increased more than 10 per cent. above a fair return on the cost of the improvements, if any, then that the excess should pay a special tax in proportion to that increase."

FELL OFF HORSE; WELD VERY ILL

Rudolph Weld, son of Stephen M. Weld, one of the wealthiest men in the State, is in an unconscious condition at his home, Governor Haven and Common streets, Dedham. His condition is baffling to the doctors.

Yesterday afternoon, accompanied by Samuel H. Wolcott, son of the late Governor Wolcott, young Weld, who is twenty-five years old, went horseback riding. When near the estate of William G. Mackenson in Dedham young Weld careened in his saddle and fell to the ground, striking on his head.

He was hurried to the residence of Mr. Mackenson, and Dr. A. B. Hodgon, the county medical examiner, was summoned. An administered resuscitee, but the latter proved futile. Weld was later taken home.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Weld, his parents, left home for a trip to Palm Beach. A telegram caught them before they reached New York and they returned.

Several persons who saw young Weld fall from the horse say that he acted as if he was dizzy. He moved from side to side in his saddle and then toppled over. Young Weld is prominent in polo circles and has played many match games.

DR. MANAHAN DIES SUDDENLY

Dr. Thomas J. Manahan, visiting surgeon at the McDonald Hospital on Summit avenue, Corey Hill, Brookline, died at 6 o'clock this morning of pneumonia after a brief illness. His condition did not become serious until late yesterday.

He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Manahan of Newbury street, Back Bay, and was thirty-seven years old. He was famous as a college athlete, having played on the Harvard varsity eleven. He graduated in 1895, and from the Harvard Medical School in 1899.

Dr. Manahan was an assistant surgeon on the Boy State Hospital ship during the war with Spain, and afterward a member of the staff of the Massachusetts General Hospital. He went to England as attending physician to the Harvard crew, and served in the same capacity on the American cup defender Reliance.

Dr. Manahan was a stalwart man with great mental gifts. He had a big, warm heart, full of sympathy. He was very widely known in college and medical circles and one of the most popular Harvard men of his day. He is survived by a widow.

U. S. TROOPS ON MADERO'S TRAIL

By OTHEMAN STEVENS.

EL PASO, Texas, Feb. 14.—El Presidente Madero is now a fugitive. He has the United States Army, the Secret Service men and the deputy United States marshals on his trail here as a result of the capture of Colonel Casillas and the papers discovered on him. These documents, it appears, were signed by Madero yesterday and were confided to Casillas for transfer to the Junta and board of strategy at Carranza and to the commanders in the field.

When Casillas was arrested the troopers took all his papers and handed them to Colonel Sharpe, U. S. A., and in turn they were transmitted to the Federal officers here. Then the presence of Madero in the city, of his supposed presence, was discovered. As a result a warrant was issued for the arrest of Madero on the charge of maintaining an armed invasion of a nation with whom the United States is at peace, and of aiding in the introduction of arms and ammunition into Mexico for the use of a rebel force.

At the same time that the warrant was issued for Madero one was signed for the arrest of Pascual Orozco, insurrecto governor of Chihuahua. Orozco until within a few months made his quarters in this city, but moved to Zaragoza, opposite Ysleta, from Ysleta, where he established his state capitol.

Orozco is ensconced at Samalayuca, thirty miles south of Juarez, and waiting for Madero. The best information obtainable is that Navarro has split with Madero and has headed northwest from Ahumada on the Central Railway, about eighty miles from Juarez, and with a pabst about fifty miles southwest of Juarez, at the junction.

There is a side to this revolution which the people of this country and Mexico as well should understand. While the fighting has been of little import the situation is really serious and has resulted in a paralysis of the large business done between the border States and Mexico. It has made the huge State of Chihuahua stagnant in commercial affairs. All of which means the men and more insurrections.

In three months' time the insurrectos have accomplished this besides tying up the railways. This is not due solely to military movements but to sympathy for Chihuahua with the Madero cause.

While the Federal victory is certain for the insurrectos, a continuance of the present succession of forays is certain. It is idle to call these peoples "bandits and Anarchists." They are devoted, brave and determined; they are not traitors, for they do not seek destruction of the nation, but its regeneration. General Diaz must soon recognize their valor and the exercise of a certain amount of justice on their side.

DAUGHTERS TO FIGHT WALTHAM MAN'S WILL

Claiming that undue influence was brought to bear upon the late Obed Sawyer, and, the eccentric and wealthy Waltham man, when making his will, his three daughters have commenced proceedings to have the testament broken. The contestants are Mrs. George L. Warren, No. 14 Gordon street, Waltham; Mrs. James E. Sullivan, West Newton, and Mrs. Alice James of Richmond, Me. It is called attached to the will the daughters were cut off with but $2,000 each. The deceased's second wife received the residue of the estate which is valued at $70,000.

$10 FARES RUNG UP BY COURT

"If the Boston Elevated showed all passengers its side on its cars and had at each an agent around to their home the next day to collect their fares there would be no dividends for the stockholders," said Judge Fallon in the South Boston District Court yesterday in imposing a fine on Frank and Melvin McGinley, bouncers at the East Fourth street South Boston saloon of Edward and the Corps of evasion fares.

Conductor Manning told the court that the men got on his car at the corner of Dorset and Washington streets and paid a ride to South Boston. When I asked them for their fares," said Manning, "they told their names and asked me to send the bill to the agent of the road around to their house the next morning for the money," said Manning.

Judge Fallon put his hand on his sides and laughed. The spectators did the same. The court's quiet rippled and he was unable to withhold a pronounced grin.

The brothers went out on the street and laughed when they got there. They told the court that they understood that the law was explicit and applicable to all persons" relative to having an agent call at their house for a fare when they didn't have it with them. The court then imposed a fine of $10 on each, which will have to be "rung in" on this trip.

BIG LEAGUES MEET TO ADOPT 1911 SCHEDULE

The big baseball leagues—the American and the National—meet today to adopt schedules for the coming season. The American League meets in Chicago for a quiet session, Manager Donovan representing the Red Sox. A lively time is carded for the National meeting in New York. President Russell is there for the Run thers.

CHICAGO, Feb. 14—Only of the many notes and officials of the American Baseball League, with the exception of President John I. Taylor of the Boston Americans, who is represented by Manager Donovan, met here today to adopt the 1911 schedule, which was drafted by President Johnson some time ago.

The meeting will be quiet, according to President Johnson, who says there is little to demand attention outside of the schedule. The session will close with a banquet given by President Shibe of the Philadelphia club in celebration of the victory over the Chicago National League club in the world's championship series last Fall.

Manager Chase of the Highlanders has just completed a trade whereby he gets Hartzell of St. Louis in return for Austin and Laporte, and believes he is ready to stand pat on that revision in his team's team. Mr. Farrell said everything was ready to begin work on the training plant for the Highlanders as soon as the weather would permit.

President C. W. Somers and Vice-President E. S. Barnard of the Cleveland club, and President Frank J. Farrell, Manager Hal Chase and Scout Arthur Irwin of the New York club were the only attendants. Chase came on from California to meet his employer and chief and will accompany them back to Gotham after the meeting.

The early trains to-day brought the other club owners to the city with the exception of President Taylor of the Boston club, who would not have time to come here and get back to start his players on their journey from Boston to Los Angeles. Manager Donovan was on the job, early, however.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The Spring meeting of the National Baseball League opened to-day at the Hotel Breslin, with indications of lively times before adjournment. The talk is all about the official ball that the league has been using for years.

Although the contract with the firm that supplies the balls does not come to an end until next season, the club owners have been considering new offers and examining the balls furnished as samples. One of the most prominent club owners in the league is said to be holding one of the firms trying for the contract.

The official program to-day is carried out as follows:

The board of directors of the league meets at 12 o'clock in the office of the league in St. James building. They take up the claim of Pitcher Howard Camnitz against the Pittsburg Club for back salary. Camnitz was an holdout in 1910, but the pitcher's 1910 contract, and Manager Fred Clarke of the Pirates claims that Camnitz fell off the water wagon during the playing season.

The pitcher says he lived up to the strict terms of his contract, and he wants for so doing $1,200 more than the club paid him last season. It is up to the board to decide who is right.

At the annual meeting of the 16-cities league meets at the Hotel Breslin and takes up the business left unfinished at the annual meeting last December. The comprises amendments to the constitution and by-laws and committee reports.

The rules committee of the league holds a meeting to talk over some of the suggested changes in the playing code. But nothing can be done in the matter, because no American League rules committee has been appointed by President Johnson, and for that reason no changes can be made.

President Lynch has announced that after the meeting he will make public the names of his staff of umpires for the coming season. To-morrow the schedule meeting of the league will be held.

William Hepburn Russell, president of the Boston Club, is registered at the Breslin, but being a newcomer in baseball, declines to talk. President Murphy of the Cubs had little to say except that the former world's champions would be decidedly troublesome next season. In local baseball circles Murphy is charged with stirring up the trouble about the ball to be used after the season of 1911.

Read Fullerton's Stories and Get Inside Facts in Big League Fights

DON'T wait till April for the opening of the baseball season. It starts tomorrow for Boston AMERICAN readers, when Hugh S. Fullerton, America's foremost baseball critic, will contribute the first of a series of articles telling the strength and weaknesses of the various big league teams. The leagues will be considered as a whole and the players of each team will be discussed individually by Mr. Fullerton.

The AMERICAN will give the fans a feast daily while they are waiting for the Red Sox and Rustlers to start playing, and when each team has been discussed Mr. Fullerton will sum up the situation and predict which clubs should be the pennant winners. His predictions in the past have made him famous. Watch for the new ones.

Order the AMERICAN now and be sure your baseball season opens tomorrow instead of April 12.

HARVARD-NAVY IN DUAL MEET

By E. V. B. PARKE.

Although the Harvard Athletic committee did not take up the question of the first early season games for the football team, several important matters were discussed concerning the track team at the meeting of the board in Cambridge. As a result it is practically certain that the Harvard runners will spend the Spring recess either at Annapolis, in acceptance of an invitation from the Naval Academy to be its guests at that time, or in Philadelphia, to do some hard training for the siege of contests which will crop out on their return to college duties.

Annapolis has written to the Harvard track management offering them the use of their track and facilities at the time mentioned, and as conditions would be far more favorable in the South than at Cambridge for track work at this early date in the Spring, the Harvard men should benefit greatly by their trip to the storm-hold of the Middies.

The question of allowing the freshman track team to compete in a dual meet with the Dartmouth freshmen on the same date as these two colleges meet in varsity competition, was also discussed. The freshman track team, which is a comparatively new affair at Harvard, has for enough entries, and this meet with the Dartmouth cubs would prove interesting and beneficial.

Dr. Channing Frothingham, '02, who is also one of the members of the Harvard advisory committee, has consulted medical adviser of the varsity nine and track teams for the coming Spring. This is an innovation for the track team. Paul Withington, assistant graduate treasurer, was authorized to select a professional coach for the soccer team, which last Fall experienced a very disastrous season.

The final act of the committee was to ratify the schedule of the second nine, which will be as follows:

April 20—Lawrence High School.
April 29—Cambridge Latin School.
May 3—Arlington High School.
May 6—South Boston High School.
May 10—Exeter at Exeter.
May 13—Worcester High School at Newton.
May 17—Phillips Andover at Andover.
May 20—Worcester at Worcester.
May 24—Worcester High School at Malden.
May 27—Groton at Groton.
May 31—Boston Latin School.
June 3—Dartmouth 1914 at Hanover.

All games unless otherwise specified will be played in Cambridge.

KLAUS TACKLES HOUCK TO-NIGHT

To-night's bout at the Armory Club between Frank Klaus of Pittsburg and Lee Houck of Lancaster, Penn., will afford some excellent dope to those who are trying to figure out who is the middleweight champion, and unless indications are all to the bad, the event will be a battle that will be a whirlwind from the start to the finish.

Of course the bout at the local club will not mean that the victor is the one to be classed as the real thing in the sport "Who's Who," but as before stated it will go a long way toward determining who has the best right to the title which he has been in dispute since the death of Sailor Kethel.

It's bound to be a great battle between two of the best men in the country. The winner will in all probability get a chance to meet Jimmy Gardner, the Lowell boxer, who is crowding the white bunch in the race for the honor.

The contest tonight should go the twelve-round limit. Both men are strong and able to stand the gaff, and the mix-up opens up pretty evenly matched the way the dope is that it will be a draw.

The betting fraternity are all at sea. There was no apparent shade in the speculation on the bout down town this morning, although some wise money was placed on Houck at 10 to 8.

Klaus has beaten Jimmy Gardner, has been knocked out in forty-one, and in his late third contest fought the Lowell boxer to a draw. Houck put it all over Harry Lewis, the aspirant for welterweight championship honors, in two rounds, and with having a shade on Klaus in a six-round no-decision bout in Philadelphia last October.

George Engle, manager of the "bearcat," will demand a return match with Gardner if Houck wins tonight.

There will be three preliminaries to the Klaus-Houck bout. Freddie O'Brien will box Young Jasper, and Joe Nelson and Lawrence will go against Eddie Connelly, while George Perry and Joe Geary will furnish the curtain raiser.

CREW PRACTICE ON AT HARVARD

By E. V. B. PARKE.

Crew practice for both the varsity and freshmen squads is on in full swing. Thirty-five men reported for the big shell and over one hundred freshmen came out for their boats on the first day of practice. The freshmen candidates were an unusually large number for the first day's work.

The work for the varsity lasted over an hour, several crews working out in the tank under the supervision of Coach Wray, while the freshmen were given work with the weights and on the machines in the university boat house.

The first varsity crew rowed in the tank in this order: Stroke, Goodale; 7, Cutler; 6, Strong (bloqper); 5, Withington; 4, Newton; 3, Metcalf; 2, Nelson (Stratton); bow, Balch

For the next month, or until work in begins on the river and the number weeded out, the varsity crew signed will be composed of the following men: A. T. Abeles '12, C. T. Abeles '13, N. L. Anderson '12, G. H. Balch '12, A. Beane '11, T. Chadwick, '13, S. Cutler '12, R. W. Cutler '11, C. H. Davis '13, J. M. Enger '12, A. M. Goodale '13, J. Hoar '12, W. Higgison '12, R. F. Hooper '11, N. R. Lincoln '12, F. H. Leslie '12, G. P. Metcalf '13, G. Von L. Meyer '13, E. D. Morgan '13, R. M. Newton '13, G. F. Newton '13, S. Parker '13, R. S. Parker '12, C. W. Pew '12, S. S. Richardson '13, J. Shiffin '11, L. D. Smith '12, G. P. Stratton '13, A. Strong '12, C. S. Sullivan '13, H. M. Vaughan '12, J. Waite '11, C. T. Weston '13, J. G. Wiggins '12, L. Withington '11. The freshmen crew rowed in the following order: L. S. Chanler, G. Taylor, J. S. Morgan, L. Converse, R. H. Mills, O. Reynolds, W. T. Gardiner, N. H. Trumbull, C. P. Curtis. This order is purely temporary, as when the men get on the water their latent ability is apt to come out and permit them obtaining a place on the first aggregation.

NIXON BEATS SCALER AT HYDE PARK A. C.

In one of the best ten round bouts ever seen in this vicinity, Billy Nixon of Cambridge won from Kid Scaler of Spokane, at the Hyde Park A. C. Nixon was forced to go the limit to box at his best speed. The bout came near being decided after a half minute of boxing in the second round, when Scaler slowed Nixon for the count of nine with a right-hander to the jaw. Scaler appeared to be happy to settle matters and allowed Nixon to come around. Scaler rushed Nixon for the rest of the remaining rounds but Nixon had it on him.

In the semi-final Joe Coes of the South End was given the decision over Benny Berger of the West End in the six rounds. Joe Wiley of Roxbury got the nod over Jim Quinlan of Boston and Jim Quinlan of Danvers knocked out Mark Kelley of Cambridge in the third round.

WRESTLING STARS TO CLASH AT COLUMBIA

That should be some wrestling match at the Columbia, when these two runners up for the middleweight championship, Walter Willoughby of Cleveland and Ed. Rizos of Pittsburg, come together on the mat.

Willoughby is hard after Gotch, looking for a return match, as he claims that the result of their last meeting before all unfavorable to him, and Rizos is credited with a three-hour draw with the champion, and is looking for another chance at him. So it is easy to believe that the fans will not miss the opportunity of seeing these two cracks battle for a chance at top-notch honors.

M'KINNON LOSES IN SLOW MEMPHIS BOUT

MEMPHIS, Feb. 14.—What was carded as the feature at the National A. C. show, an eight-round bout between Jimmy Howard of Chicago and Mike McKinnon, developed into one of the slowest exhibitions of the season here, with Howard showing the better class in the final two rounds and gaining the decision.

ROOSEVELT AND FIGHTER!!! GUESS?

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Owen Moran, the English pugilist, and Theodore Roosevelt, clasped hands and exchanged good wishes in the dining car of a New York Central train which brought them on to this city from Michigan.

Moran had never seen the former President, but picked him out from among a party which entered the dining car of the Wolverine on the train was running through Canada toward Niagara Falls. When Mr. Roosevelt learned of the English lightweight's presence he immediately turned away from his companions and walked over to Moran's table.

"So you knocked Nelson out, did you? Fine! Magnificent!" exclaimed the colonel after an exchange of greetings. For some time they exchanged reminiscences of fights and fighters.

When Moran remarked on the readiness with which Colonel Roosevelt consented to talk to him and the contrast which the fighter found with the exclusiveness of eminent men abroad, the colonel straightened up and clenched his hands.

"Well, there's no king that I can't talk to and no honest man that can't talk to me," the colonel declared with character istic emphasis. Moran and former President wished each other the best of good wishes on parting.

NEWTON TO PROTEST BROOKLINE VICTORY
Newton High is to protest the Preparatory League hockey match won by Brookline High. A rule of the game provides that each manager submit to the secretary a list of the names of the players who are eligible for the game. Newton alleges that neither team submitted the names, and, therefore, the game should be thrown out of the series and another one played. The protest will be made by the faculty.

MAYOR PUTS LID ON BOXING IN BROCKTON
BROCKTON, Feb. 14.—As a result of the action of Mayor Howard in notifying the police to permit no infraction of the law in connection with boxing bouts in this city, promoters of such exhibitions here stated they would not attempt further meetings. The bouts carded for tomorrow night have therefore been called off.

YOUNG DONOHUE OF BOSTON IS VICTOR
NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Young Donohue of Boston bested Benny Franklin of Harlem to-night in their bout at the Olympic A. C. The Boston boxer had the better of nearly every round and scored a knockdown in the eighth.

RED SOX PLAYERS SOLD TO BROCKTON
BROCKTON, Feb. 14.—The purchase of George Boardman, an infielder, and Joseph Tobey, a player from the Boston Americans, was announced by Manager Steve Flanagan of the Brockton nine. Boardman played with Lawrence last season, being farmed out by the Red Sox. He was with Brockton two years ago and is rated as the leading third baseman in the league. Tobey played with Brockton several years ago. He pitched winning ball for Holy Cross and was sought for last season by Manager Flanagan without success.

Desperate Desmond

No human brain, except Desperate Desmond's, could conceive an idea so diabolical as to bind a beautiful young girl to a ten-ton bell and then throw it down from the belfry. It is only fair to state, however, that Desmond is doing this partly to distract the attention of Claude, who has sworn to have the villain's life.

There is only one thing for Claude to do, and he does it. Jumping to the top of the bell as it passes him, he pounds on the big club, the sight of which he intended to use on Desperate Desmond. He hopes that somebody will hear the racket and do something or other to save Rosamond's fair young life.

They make such quick time that they get to the town hall before the bell has time to reach the ground, and that's good even if the fire is only a house is only two blocks away. If the Excelsiors don't win a prize at the next annual firemen's tournament, we miss one xmas, which is something we seldom do.

The hook and ladder boys are not only there with the speed, but they have their brains with them also, which is more than can be said for some volunteer fire companies we have seen. Catching a heavy bell like that without breaking the ladders is no easy matter, let us tell you. If you don't believe us, just try it once.

The next thing on the program is to get Desperate Desmond. He's still on the belfry, and the firemen have got him surrounded. They're going to help Claude get back at him for, his recently attempt on Rosamond's life. To-morrow's pictures will show what they do to him, or what he does to them, as the case may be.

A Thrilling Story of the Highbinders of San Francisco

The Shadow of Quong Lung

Mystery of the Orient Transplanted to America :: By Dr. C. W. Doyle

Copyright by C. W. Doyle

Synopsis of Preceding Instalments

LEE MOY, the four-year-old son of Suey Yep, is struck by the wheels of a coupe in front of a street in San Francisco's Chinatown. The beautiful white woman occupant takes him, accompanied by his mother, to a hospital, where it is found that the child is not only drunk with "samshu" (Chinese gin), but likewise is stone blind.

Suey Yep tells the doctors that she pities the little fellow with drink, daily, because "when he no drunk, he cry for the sun; but when he drunk, he clap hands, sing and dance and say he see beautiful flowers and sunshine."

Suey Yep belongs to the household of Lee Chung, merchant, who is in debt to Quong Lung, the most dreaded man in the Chinese quarter. The fair Caucasian visits there the next day and prevails on Suey Yep to take the child to see specialists. The latter tells the white woman that Lee Moy is hopelessly blind.

Little Lee Moy dies, as the great specialist predicted he would, and Lee Chung, crushed by the weight of Quong Lung's influence, sells out his store, and Suey Yep into the bargain, to Quong. The latter, a Yale graduate and versed in the laws of the White Devils, urges the fair Samaritan not to interfere with his purchase of Suey Yep.

Ho Chung, a goldsmith, desires to write to his wife, Moy Yen, in China, and applies to Chin Lee, a scrivener in Chinatown. He tells Chin Lee that she is unsparingly beautiful and believes her and the child they expect to sail and meet him in San Francisco. Chin agrees to write the letter and advise his own father in China to see that she reaches the right ship.

He asks Ho for a miniature which the husband carries and, getting possession, shows it to Quong Lung, to whom the scrivener is in heavy debt and over whose head Quong holds the threat of evidence of a murder committed ten years before in Chinatown. Chin offers to betray the beautiful Moy Yen into the hands of Quong Lung if the debt is declared satisfied. Quong and he strike a bargain.

CHAPTER VI.—(Continued.)

"HER name, inexorable, is Moy Yen, and she is the wife of Ho Chung, who is a skilled goldsmith and careth high wage in the service of Quan Loy of Dupont street."

"She is here?"

"Nay, Far Reacher; she is in Moukden, of the province of Shing-kiang, where the people use other speech than ours, as thou knowest. And Ho Chung, her husband, is saving money for her journey to this land with her babe, after it is born."

"Her babe?" asked Quong Lung, with a frown.

"Yes, Most Merciful."

The Shadow of Quong

"And what should I do with a baled My shadow lath fallen on it. See to it that it withers."

"The lightning shall strike it, Most Worshipful!"

"Have a photograph made of this portrait; it will be needful to Moy Yen's admission to this land as a 'Native Daughter.'"

"And if she should be as beautiful as her picture shows her to be, will thou retain the greater debt?"

"Perhaps," said Quong Lung, eying him for a moment with disdain. "See go!"

CHAPTER VII.

How Rhetoric May Serve Love

"HERE is dy picture, Ho Chung," said Chin Lee when they met at the appointed hour.

"I could not sleep last night be thinking of it," responded Ho Chung, turning his money to the letter-writer, and concealing the precious miniature in his blouse.

"Somely shall thou sleep tonight, young man, lulled by the consciousness that never fair woman received letter like the that thou shalf send to Moy Yen. But it is not fitting that such rhetoric as mine should be wasted in a roaring street. Come with me to the square below where, at least, there is grass with poesies shadowed thereon."

When they had reached Union square, Chin Lee handed the papers in his hand, and read the following letter, which he had bulleted:

"Moy Yen — Cherry Blossom! — to think that these my silly words shall take thine eyes!"

"Excellent!" interrupted Ho Chung; "I perceive thou hast suffered as I do."

The Letter to Moy Yen

Chin Lee acknowledged the compliment with a smile, and went on with his reading:

"But to begin rightly. It hath been my good fate to meet with a Master of Rhetoric, one Chin Lee, who is not too old to have forgotten the thrill of the tender passion, and who hath suffered grievously in the cultivation of the affections.

"He hath much skill in the lofty art of the scrivener, for he hath labored all his life, and at all hours of the day and night, in the stony fields of misery and oppression.

"His skill is only less than my devotion, which he has herein transmuted into tender phrase and loving passion. Selfthis day surpassing excellence. What manner of man he is is hereunder told:

"Chin Lee, adjusting his spectacles, went on:

"But, whatsoever happens, always remember that Chin Lee is an Honorable Man — and no not friend!"

"But this does not touch me," said Ho Chung with some irritation.

"Shall I an unrebuked man, set as a pocket-piece on the honorable parlour and their correspondents who live where our speech is not spoken?" asked Chin Lee, with some heat.

"Perhaps thou art right — but I would dictate the rest of the letter. See, I will proceed, then with this valuable treatise of thee to Moy Yen."

"Nay, nay," Ho Chung; betlhik thee; shalt one who is acquainted with the 'Four Books and the Five Classics' yield to a mere goldsmith in matters pertaining to rhetoric? Shall I permit my perfect knowledge of the Confusian Analects to be trampled under foot even by a hearty but lack of learning should warn sumptuarily in the presence of an understanding that comprehendeth the encyclopedia 'Wan Hsen Tung Kaou,' compiled by the learned Ma Twan-lin." He finished with a lofty emphasis.

To be continued to-morrow.

Fergus and the Red Colleen

By KENNETT HARRIS

MR. MULREADY was dealing himself a lone forty-five hand in the little back room at Lneegr's when the young man in the green sweater found him. He looked up with a wry twist of his mouth that was meant to be welcoming, but missed it and dived under the table.

"Rist your hunkers, Jamesey, lad," he said, cordially. "Sure 'tis a dull hole here wit the bye-ys gone stewed after their cursed beef an' cabbage. That's the worst of losing a gintleman of lisure. There's no few of us entirely. How's all wid ye, an' wid the members of your fond affeckions?"

"Everything's all right," replied the young man in the green sweater, yawning, as he seated himself.

"Is she proud as iver?" inquired Mr. Mulready.

"She knows better," answered the young man in the green sweater. "She knows that I won't stand for no monkey business."

"Well, well," said Mr. Mulready. "An' this is what it's come to, are ye telling me? She knows bether,' sis he. An' him distracted entirely but two short weeks ago. Fergus O'Shea all over again!"

"Who's he?" asked the young man in the green sweater.

The Story of Fergus O'Shea

"He was a lad back in the ould country that was the very spit of me whin the world was young," said Mr. Mulready, pushing his spectacles upon his bald forehead. "That is to say, he was good lookin' beyant the ordinary, an' light an' trim, an' handy wid his stick or his pair of fists so that he was feared by man an' loved by women for miles around Dungarvan.

"Dungarvan!" sighed Mr. Mulready. "'Tis a sweet place, I got me old wife woman from out there. Many's the day we've sat out on Helrick Hill watched the boats go by. Whin ye want to see pretty grurls, go to Dungarvan, Jamesey. An' 'twas the same in Fergus O'Shea's day, an' the bright eyes undher the grey hoods was shl sayin' to Fergus, 'Come an' thry,' come an' thry! I'll not deny ye."

"But Fergus laughed an' went his way. 'Too stay,' sis he. 'Too stay. I know all I want widout thryin'.' An' divil a least taster wud his pulse go till he met the Colleen wid the Red Cloak. That it was but the glimpse of black hair flyin', an' the flash of the red cloak, an' her dancin' feet took her on the western turnpike, around the bend and out of sight.

"'Who wud she be, I dunno,' sis me lould Fergus. 'Be she who she may, I'll take either her, or no one.' An' from that hare I seen the like of her, an' no other will contint me.'

"So off he sets on the western turnpike an' comes in a while to where around a bend the glimpse of a red cloak dancing ahead, o' once in a while, the flash of a foot, or a little shoe in the dust; but thry as he might, he cud niver come up wid her.

"Sometimes he lost her entirely, an' this his heart was heavy. The night come on an' she was gone an' he lay down under the hedge at last an' dreamed of the floating black locks and the little dancing feet that he would come up wid on the morrow.

"He was sitting before the sun rose, as his eyes opined, he saw a glint of red, or thought he did, and, a mile on, there was the print of a little foot in the dust. He asked of all he met: 'Have ye seen a Colleen wid a Red Cloak?' an' they'd answer him back, 'Sure, she's but a furlong or two ahead, and hold trudge, on wid a heart uplifted.'

"Yet, thry as he might, he cud niver come up wid her, slip of a grurl as she was; an' mornin' wint to noon, an' noon to night, an' he was still on the western turnpike.

"The nixt day, the red cloak fluttered north an' thin west again an' north to Kildare, but a glimpse of it was all Fergus got. Than an' one word from Leolk he met an' those in the cottages where he begged a bite an' a sup. Always it was, 'She's but a little bether, Fergus. Hurry an' ye'll be up wid her in a jiffy.'

Her Face Like the Sunrise

"But the miles reeled out along the Dublin road an' into Dublin town, an' through the alleys an' the schreets, here an' there an' hither an' yan; thin out of the town an' west till he came to the Black wather; an' the feet of the red cloak an' her dancin' feet took her on the western turnpike, around the bend and out of sight.

"'Who wud she be, I dunno,' sis me lould Fergus. 'Be she who she may, I'll take either her, or no one.' An' from that hare I seen the like of her, an' no other will contint me.'

"So off he sets on the western turnpike an' comes in a while to where around a bend the glimpse of a red cloak dancing ahead, o' once in a while, the flash of a foot, or a little shoe in the dust; but thry as he might, he cud niver come up wid her.

"Sometimes he lost her entirely, an' this his heart was heavy. The night come on an' she was gone an' he lay down under the hedge at last an' dreamed of the floating black locks and the little dancing feet that he would come up wid on the morrow.

"He was sitting before the sun rose, as his eyes opined, he saw a glint of red, or thought he did, and, a mile on, there was the print of a little foot in the dust. He asked of all he met: 'Have ye seen a Colleen wid a Red Cloak?' an' they'd answer him back, 'Sure, she's but a furlong or two ahead, and hold trudge, on wid a heart uplifted.'

"Yet, thry as he might, he cud niver come up wid her, slip of a grurl as she was; an' mornin' wint to noon, an' noon to night, an' he was still on the western turnpike.

"The nixt day, the red cloak fluttered north an' thin west again an' north to Kildare, but a glimpse of it was all Fergus got. Than an' one word from Leolk he met an' those in the cottages where he begged a bite an' a sup. Always it was, 'She's but a little bether, Fergus. Hurry an' ye'll be up wid her in a jiffy.'

Her Face Like the Sunrise

"But the miles reeled out along the Dublin road an' into Dublin town, an' through the alleys an' the schreets, here an' there an' hither an' yan; thin out of the town an' west till he came to the Black wather; an' the feet of the red cloak an' her dancin' feet took her on the western turnpike, around the bend and out of sight.

NO NEED BE FAT

How to Reduce Flesh Easily in Natural Way Without Drugs.

I am so happy over my discovery in reducing my weight in a natural way, without drugs and gain a figure that I am not ashamed of, that I want to share my good forming with every one that "fights" obesity and overweight.

Many years I could see my double chin growing, my hips and waistline disappear, and I tried many things, including the expensive "reducing" treatments, but nothing did me any good. It was only by a chance that I tried my own experiments that brought me results, and I am now the happy possessor of the symmetrical figure which nature intended I should have. It is easy, it is natural, it is healthful, and it is within the reach of every woman. I will send you free of charge, a description of my remarkable discovery, Allen Wright, Suite 710, Scranton, Penn.

I want every fleshy woman and woman to prove, without cost to themselves, the wonderful results of my treatment, so just write us to-day; enclosing 10c. in stamps or silver, to help pay distribution expenses, and we will send you free a 50c. box of my remarkable discovery, Allen Wright, Suite 710, Scranton, Penn.

The Head Waitress

The manager takes all the cigars they give him.

"WHAT'S the matter with the head waitress to-day?" asked the Steady Customer as he gazed at the mournful expression on the face of the manager of the Cafe des Enfants.

"Oh, he refused to join the F. F. L. Club," replied the Head Waitress, "Some of the girls tried to initiate him, but he wouldn't stand for it."

"F. F. L.?" repeated the Steady Customer. "What does that stand for?"

"Friends for Life," explained the Head Waitress. "It only costs a nickel to join."

Buy one of them five-cent cigars from the cashier and give it to the manager, and you're a member."

"That's easy," said the Steady Customer, "but what started this club going?"

"Well, we girls held a ball last night," said the Head Waitress, "and some of them concluded that dancing beat sleeping and remained up all night. So when the 7 o'clock bell rang, this morning, the five-cent ones began to drift in.

How the F. F. L. Was Organized

"Frances, the girl over at the second table that wears those dew-drop pendants in her ears, arrives first. The manager is juggling butter cakes in the window while the supply boy is eatin' his breakfast, and don't notice her.

"Frances nearly gives the cashier heart trouble by plotting up one of them five-cent pieces of rope and laying down a nickel. Then she waltzes over to the manager and hands him the smoke.

"'Here,' she says, as bold as can be, 'take this and join the F. F. L. Club!' The manager, lookin' kinder dazed like, puts the cigar in his pocket and asks what the F. F. L. Club may be. 'Friends for Life,' says Frances. 'Let me off to-day and we'll be friends for life, see?'

"Well, I don't never heard the manager swear before, but he does say something under his breath that might have been 'slam' or 'ela-s,' but I don't think so. Anyhow Frances flashes up and goes to work, but the manager keeps the cigar.

The Manager Comes Out Ahead

"Then a bunch more of the weary ones arrive and go through the same stunt. The manager pretends to be cross at first, he doesn't know what the game is, takes the cigars and waits until they get through. Then he gives them the North Pole stare and they fade.

"Later on I see him go to the cashier and hand her about nine cigars he got from them dopey waitresses. He gets a resp.

The Farmer Who Was Hated by His Neighbors and the Valentine He Got

By THOMAS TAPPER.

I.

THIS is Lovers' day.

II.

There was once a farmer who was said to be so hard-hearted that he loved no one. He lite in one of the large houses, using the back door for entrance. His wife lived in the other half of the house, and used the front door. They had not spoken for twenty years. All the front windows, in his half of the house, were boarded up. So, too, were the rear windows in that part of the house where the wife lived.

The neighbors hated this man, not because he lived alone, but because he was cruel to his cattle.

On Valentine's Day, in the year eighteen hundred and something, he opened his door early in the morning, and on the step he found a large basket. In this basket, wrapped up snug and warm, as must be in February in New England, there was a baby. To the handle of the basket there was tied a letter.

The farmer took the basket and its cousents into the house, and the first thing he did was, not to look at the baby, but to read the letter.

It said:

"They say you are a heartless man. Show them you are not. But remember that if you abuse your cows, their milk will kill this baby."

The hands unaccustomed to doing gentle acts, he took the baby out of the basket. It smiled at him and puts its fingers into his beard.

Being a new Englander, he exclaimed: "Well, I swum!"

Then the baby cried. He put it back into the basket again and went into the cupboard for bread and milk. As he softened the bread and milk, he remembered the letter: "If you abuse your cows, their milk will kill this baby."

No one can tell what passed through his mind in that moment. But I can tell you what he did.

He placed the basket near the kitchen stove, and ran across the field behind the barn, to a neighbor, and asked for a quart of milk.

When he came back he went around to the front of the house with the milkcan and found a bucket knocked at his wife's door. When she opened it he beckoned her to follow him. Neither of them said anything, for you remember that they had not spoken to each other for twenty years.

Arriving at the back door, he motioned her to wait. He went in, picked up the basket and held it out to his wife. The baby stretched its hand out to the woman and cried. Both the man and woman exclaimed at the same moment:

"It is hungry."

They went in, and the woman began to feed the little one with bread and milk. The man stood by, twisting his hat by the brim and watching.

His wife looked up, and their eyes met. "You go out and get a lot of firewood," she said. "We must keep this child warm."

III.

The man went again to his neighbor's and was gone a long time. When he came back, he was leading a cow that he had bought. There must be no risk with the milk.

The next morning he took the shutters down from the front windows on his half of the house, and from the back windows of his wife's rooms.

Of course, the neighbors inked. I cannot tell you all they said, nor does it matter, for there is something better to be told.

On Valentine's Day the next year, and every year thereafter, the farmer and his wife invited all the neighbors to dinner. The little Valentine that had come in the basket sat in a high chair for a few of these occasions. Then she climbed up into the same kind of a kitchen chair that all the other used.

As she grew up she made friends with every living thing. Dogs, cows, and horses would follow her about. The pigeons fed from her hand; and for every duck and goose and chicken she had a name.

The farmer and his wife often followed her about in just the same way.

What Is True Love?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A CAMBRIDGE man wants to know "What is True Love?"

His is not a solitary quest.

A good many people in Cambridge, and in Boston, and in Shanghai, would like to know what is true love.

It is an eternal question, and it will last just as long as the good old world shall last; and then it will take on its endless search in the realms of space.

Those who have found true love will tell you that it is the one thing, the only thing in life worth while. Those who have not you find it out for yourself.

Then you will know that until that time you have been a poor, half-fledged thing — existing, and really living.

What True Love Means

True love is not passion, though passion is a part of true love.

True love lasts long after passion's vivid flame has burned down to a tender glow.

It means companionship, sympathy and an intuitive knowledge of each other's needs.

There is no real love that is absolutely free from jealousy; but in a love that is truly great the jealousy may be controlled.

Would you wish the man or woman who loved you to look with complacency upon another's monopoly of your interest and affections?

If you can do that, then you do not know the first rudiments of true love.

The seeker after knowledge asks "Can true love ever die?"

True love cannot die, but it can be killed by cruel, ruthless hands; and hundreds of men and women have deliberately killed it.

Even then, its memory cannot die.

Again the seeker asks, "Do not most marriages come through propinquity?"

Marriages must come through propinquity, because propinquity means being near a person, and naturally one does not marry a total stranger. But propinquity spells danger, and it plays many a sorry trick upon unsuspecting young people.

They Mistake Infatuation

Propinquity tricks young people into mistaking a passing infatuation for real, true love.

Through propinquity a man will fall in love with a woman when if he met her in the world would have fled from her otherwise.

The matchmaker knows that nothing helps out her scheming so well as throwing two young people constantly together.

Propinquity is an indispensable factor in every match; in some it is almost the entire factor. The marriage of propinquity alone is not apt to last.

In the average woman's eyes the most desperate calamity that can fall to her lot, is to remain unwed.

Having acquired a certain attitude toward old maids in that of pitying toleration.

The very children become imbued with that idea and hence the average girl's fear of being an old maid.

In her eagerness to escape this awful fate she marries a man she does not love. To her true love comes after a time in quantity. Just as many women marry for a home, so do many men marry for a passing infatuation.

In both cases the experiment is a failure.

Marriage is an experiment; only one thing can make it a success, and that is true love.

True love must be founded on respect and congeniality. Without these it will degenerate into the bitter ashes of dislike, boredom and disappointment.

WOMEN MAY AVOID OPERATIONS

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how much it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for long time. My physician treated me for seven months without much relief and then I went to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

Freckle-Face

New Remedy That Removes Freckles or Costs Nothing

Here's a chance. Miss Freckle-Face, to try a new remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles, while if it does give you a clear complexion, the expense is trifling.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

STOCKS AGAIN MOVE UPWARD

To the astonishment of the shorts and many others as well, the seasonal slump anticipated has not as yet materialized. It may come before the month is out, but there is nothing to indicate it now.

In consequence of readjustments in financial affairs succeeding the investment of surplus capital after the January disbursements of interest and dividends have been made, the usual rating in February is a decline in the stock market.

It is not unusual that traffic on the transportation lines shows a falling off at this period, but there was not been enough of this to excite comment. Wilmoth, on the contrary, are doing exceedingly well and this has led to a good deal of the part of many well-informed men that they will not get so much of an increase in the matter of freight rates as some have had reason to look for.

Since July 25 last the average price of the securities dealt in on the Stock Exchange has risen nearly 20 points, making up about half the loss sustained in 1909. This has so stunned and surprised the bears as to induce them to a state of comparative inactivity, in spite of the good news coming in from the west of prosperity that has been going on for two weeks or more. The absence of shorts weakens the market technically.

There is plenty of room for a rise in the average of the market, and it will come through the medium of those securities which are not attracting the much attention from investors while the leaders have the benefit of the stage. It is only a matter of years for some one to blaze the trail, and this has come to be the stocks that will most in the public eye.

Both Erie and Missouri Pacific have been leaders, but in the true sense of the word they have not now, although they may be. In the same connection are to be mentioned American Beet Sugar, the fertilizing stocks, the Gates and Schmidt steel properties, Cotton Oil, Ice, Locomotive, American Car & Foundry, Baltimore & Ohio, Brooklyn Rapid Transit, Denver & Rio Grande, Illinois Central, Interborough-Metropolitan shares, International Pump, Pressed Steel Car, St Louis Southwestern, Sloss-Sheffield, Southern Railway, Utah and Tennessee Copper, Toledo, St. Louis & Western, United States Realty & Improvement, United States Rubber, Wabash, Western Maryland and Western Union Telegraph.

The committee representing the Boston Stock Exchange appointed to confer with officials of the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company regarding the proposed plan of consolidation, issued its report, in which the committee reports that the plan for consolidation is proposed in good faith, but says there is no doubt that speculative opportunities will be found in using it to go into the merger, but on the other hand there will be a great gain in the stability of the investment. In a letter to President Shaw they recommend that the number of shares be made greater, through a holding company or otherwise, so as to bring a share selling in the market around $50 rather than $200, thereby giving the advantage of a broader market for the stock.

Plans for the consolidation of the Wisconsin Copper Company and the King Philip Copper Company are completed and official announcement and the terms will be made in a few days.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Company is operating about 80 per cent of capacity. The Pittsburg works are operating mostly on structural material for the Panama Canal.

Newburyport has awarded to Old Colony Trust Company a temporary loan of $100,000, maturing October 14 and $50,000 maturing November 14, at 3.21 per cent discount plus $1.30 premium.

Intercolonial Coal Mining Company reduced its dividend to 3 per cent, for 1910 as against 7 per cent. in 1909.

President Wood of the American Woolen Company denies the rumor that 70 per cent. of the machinery of the company is running. No official figures have been given out.

BRINGS BRIDE'S BODY FROM WEST

Herbert F. Robert has arrived in Malden with the body of his bride who died in Phoenix, Ariz., a few hours after their marriage ceremony. The funeral takes place to-day, from the undertaking rooms of A. N. Ward, Malden, with interment at Forestdale Cemetery.

The ceremony was the culmination of a romance which began when Miss Mildred Carlile Grey lived in Somerville.

At the side of the girl's deathbed the service which united the couple in holy wedlock was held Friday. They had planned their marriage for June, but the sudden development of a fatal disease caused the bride to seek the climate of Arizona.

TAKES POISON, CALLS ON WIFE; FALLS DEAD

FALL RIVER, Feb. 14.—William F. Menard, forty years of age, residing at No. 329 Flint street, committed suicide by swallowing carbolic acid. After taking the poison Menard went to the front door of his home, rang the bell and when his wife answered he told her what he had done and dropped unconscious at her feet. He died in a few minutes.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS STRIKE FOR HOLIDAY

POUGHKEEPSIE, Feb. 14.—Seventy-five boys and girls of the Matteawan High School went on strike because they were not given a holiday in commemoration of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. The pupils paraded the streets and spent the afternoon at a vaudeville theatre. The members of the board of education say they will take action in the matter and demonstrate that discipline in the school must be maintained.

THEATRE COMPANY TREASURER MISSING

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 14.—Charles Ehret, treasurer of the "Montana" Theatrical Company, which played last week at Heuk's Theatre here, has been missing since last Tuesday. Manager Harry Carey of the company has wired the police of New York, St. Louis, Kansas City, Chicago, Indianapolis and other cities to keep a lookout for him.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The stock market opened to-day with the general list firm and fairly active.

Union Pacific quoted 179½, a gain of ¼; St. Paul 128¾, a gain of ⅛; Northern Pacific 129⅝, a gain of ⅛; Missouri Pacific 57½, a gain of half; Reading 166⅝, a gain of ⅜.

Advices from London said that the market there was irregular, but that the best class of investment was leading. The Canadian Pacific was strong, while the rest of American railway shares were waiting the market with a steady tone.

The New York curb market opened fairly active and steady.

A considerable volume of commission house buying larger on out of town orders accumulated over the holidays was a feature in the early trading. Traders were still sensitive to their opinions and appeared to be covering shorts.

Reading was the bull leader and its action aroused general anticipation of the bulls that some development of consequence in stock affairs was pending. Consolidated Gas made a new high record for the present movement, selling up to 145. United States Steel was firm.

BLACKHAND AGENTS DYNAMITE HOUSE

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Fifty persons were hurled from their beds and fled into the street panic stricken early to-day when blackhand agents tried to blow up the apartment house at No. 278 Eight avenue with dynamite. Frank and Joseph Barna, who have apartments in the second floor, sought to summon aid by firing their revolvers from the windows which added to the alarm. Fire following the explosion burned out a portion of the house.

RABBI FLUEGEL OF BALTIMORE IS DEAD

BALTIMORE, Feb. 14.—Rabbi Maurice Fluegel, author and historian, is dead at his home in this city. He was seventy-nine years old. Dr. Fluegel began to write at twenty years of age. The object of his work was mainly to defeat race prejudice and to combat pauperism.

John Craig's Organization of Players Gives an Excellent Performance.

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

For the second time in his stage career John Craig has gone to the devil—which is no flippant jest, for Mr. Craig was one of the happiest and most agreeable of devils in Edwin Mordant's version of Goethe's "Faust" at the Castle Square Theatre yesterday. But he was a remorseless Mephistopheles, and left a sad trail of misery and tragedy as he moved through the play with the love-sick Faust indulging at his beck.

Curiously, this was Mr. Craig's first experience in "Faust," although it might be said that he had a speaking acquaintance with Satan, having made him up for three weeks when Molnar's "The Devil" startled the theatrical world two seasons ago. Mary Young was in new mastery with Marguerite, but no one would have suspected it from her familiar style of acting.

Splendid Scenic Production.

"Faust" is one of the biggest things Mr. Craig has done during his possession of the Castle Square Theatre from a stock organization with less acting ability and mechanical equipment than Mr. Craig's would have made a sorry mess of the play's big moments. But few of those in yesterday's audience could have expected Mr. Craig to give so much scenic splendor to the production, for while it added much to the beauty of the production, it was, nevertheless, rather a perplexing thing in the face of the limited time the piece will be permitted to run.

At any rate, Mr. Craig has nothing to regret in the "Faust" that found its way to the Castle Square stage yesterday.

The greater part of the task fell upon Mr. Craig's diabolically suave shoulders, and while he was more or less on the merry side of the ring, he never allowed the audience or his fellow-actors a moment's power. It was plain that Mr. Craig as Satan would have liked him better as a heavier—it is a fashion with stock audiences that have a popular star to admire. But Mr. Craig was a red devil after Satan's own heart, and every one made the most of it.

Miss Young carried Marguerite into every acting heart in the big house. She made clear work of the bitterness and childishness that engulfed her, which is all that any Marguerite could do. Miss Young caught the spirit of her unhappy surroundings and lured them to the role without a single faltering step.

A Robust Faust.

The Faust of Robert Homans was robust enough to give Mephistopheles plenty of trouble if he had really set out to do it, but, of course, he didn't. Mr. Homans was as big as a traffic policeman and won Marguerite as much by weight as through any of Satan's sly manipulations. And George Hassel was no delicate, timid Valentine—just remember that.

The silly old Martha was sensibly played by Mabel Concord, who led Mephistopheles a chase that finally exhausted the old gentleman.

Mechanically, Mr. Craig's production was superior in every particular. He unfolded slightly effective spectacles to his audience, and supplied sensations that were both unexpected and enlivening.

Although he was no specialist on the program Maitone Lucille d'Alberti sang the "Flower Song" with spirited effect.

"Faust" will keep Mr. Craig in his red unholy suit for two weeks.

Keith's.

There was no welching on good acts in the bill at Keith's Theatre, though the feature act was "The Welcher," in which that delightful character actor, Macy Arnoldi, starred on the receiving toy of his admirers. Unusual excellence was the keynote of the entire show. All the numbers on the program are orders, but "The Welcher" managed to come out ahead on the square deal of everything.

The one-act play suits Mr. Arnoldi to perfection. He is always a scientific actor, and his work in the tabloid drama loses none of its finesse. As Dan Gannay, the gambler, Mr. Arnoldi is at his best and there is nothing to be desired. He is ably supported by Vaughan Trevor as the butler and Agnes Redmond as the little girl.

"The Courtiers," a novelty in the line of musical acts, was thoroughly entertaining. Bert Levy, the artist, who draws quaint sketches and then dashes them through a saxophone, was amazing.

In a graceful singing and dancing sketch Tempest and Sunshine scored. Wentworth, Vesta and Teddy, an acrobatic team, pulled lots of applause. The third number of the trio is an acrobatic dog that is in reality something of a wonder all to himself. T. H. Davies scored in a farce called "Nerves." Other good acts were Murdock, Harris and Gillam, the three Livingstones, Felix Adler and the new daylight motion picture.

Grand Opera House.

It was melodrama with a tender title that drew a big audience to the Grand Opera House last evening. "Nellie Regan Guide Her" was the pathetic little play that sent chills, tears and laughter coursing each other through the patrons who watched the difficult struggle of a young girl in her contest with the world. It all ended very happily, however, and everybody in the theatre went home feeling better.

Howard Athenaeum.

There was almost a double bill at the Old Howard yesterday when the "Gay Boys" shared honors with "The Bohemian Burlesquers" in one of the best entertainments of its kind Boston has had for some time. The military act showed the marching training of the men engaged in it. They sealed high walls and performed other astonishing feats. The military act showed the marching training of the men engaged in it. They scaled high walls and performed other astonishing feats. The burlesque part of the show was made especially attractive by the presence of many pretty young women.

Orpheum Theatre.

There was a large measure of comedy in the new program at the Orpheum Theatre yesterday, in which Franklin Ardell and company made the most of their time in a lively sketch called "The Suffragette." Another interesting act was furnished by Pilgora, who calls himself a "transfigurator." His impersonations were agreeable.

New Palace Theatre.

There was no doubt of the popularity of the Seven Olivas at the New Palace Theatre yesterday. This troupe of musical entertainers headed the bill and gave a lively performance. But other big vaudeville features and a long list of new motion pictures completed one of the best programmes of the season.

Bowdoin Square Theatre.

Nillson's Aerial ballet was the head-line attraction at the Bowdoin Square Theatre yesterday. In this act pretty girls floated through the air to the astonishment of the audiences.

Austin & Stone's.

The congress of fat women that occupied the platform in the cafe hall at Austin & Stone's Museum yesterday provided laughable entertainment for the many visitors.

Scenic Temple.

The new bill at the Scenic Temple yesterday, like many that have gone before, was replete with novelties in both vaudeville features and motion pictures.

for three hours of lively fun at the Columbia Theatre yesterday. It was a sparkling show, with no waiting to say nothing of the fetching costumes that were worn.

Waldron's Casino.

"The Dainty Duchess" Company, which took possession of the stage at Waldron's Casino Theatre yesterday, was one of the most attractive burlesque organizations of the season. More than forty people—mostly handsome girls—took part in the action.

Gaiety Theatre.

Charlie Waldron's "Trouadero" burlesquers entered upon a week's merry making at the Gaiety Theatre yesterday. Frank Finney, yesterday was one of the most attractive burlesque organizations of the season. More than forty people—mostly handsome girls—took part in the action.

Hub Theatre.

Comedy ruled the new bill at the Hub Theatre yesterday, with T. F. Thomas and company leading the program with a lively sketch. There were a dozen other features.

New Nickelodeon.

The programme at the New Nickelodeon Theatre had as its head line feature yesterday Canfield, a reformed gambler, who explained how easy it is to cheat in all games of chance. Several other vaudeville numbers and Nine Searles burlesquers completed the bill.

Cambridge Theatre.

The second week of the Cambridge Theatre opened yesterday with a long list of high-class vaudeville numbers, chief among which were those supplied by Lloyd and Gibson and Young and Young.

"Beverly" Coming.

A sudden change in the booking arrangements of the Globe Theatre will bring "Beverly" to that house next week. This is a dramatization of Anthony Hope McCutcheon's widely read romantic novel.

Plays That Remain.

Sam Bernard began his final week at the Shubert in "His Name From Milwaukee" last evening. His audience displayed appreciation.

The last week of "Madame X" was begun at the Majestic Theatre last evening. In spite of its long run, interest in this play is on the increase.

The first week of "The Rosary" was begun at the Globe Theatre last evening. This play has broken all records at the Globe.

William H. Crane entered upon his last week at the Park Theatre in "A Little Minister Bedfellow" last evening.

Julius Tilzer and "The Fascinating Widow" continue their prosperous career at the Boston Theatre. This show is one of the season's successes.

"The Doll's Princess," now upon its final week at the Colonial Theatre, played to a big audience last evening.

The popularity of "The Follies of 1910" continues to draw capacity audiences to the Tremont Theatre.

VANDERBILT CUP RACE IN DOUBT

By J. C. KERRISON.

From New York comes many rumors affecting the big national races. The fact that A. R. Pardington has become strongly identified with the A. A. A. in the upbuilding of the proposed national racing circuit has brought forth a rumor to the effect that he has severed his connection with the Long Island Motor Parkway, of which he has heretofore been the general manager.

It is on this parkway that the Vanderbilt and several other events have always been ridden. There is some question as to whether or not the Vanderbilt will be run in the East this year, for the reason that the American Automobile Association and the Manufacturers' Contest Association have both gone on record that no sanction for road races shall be given unless the course is guarded by troops.

Governor Dix of New York is perhaps personally willing to detail troops for the work, but previous attorney generals and adjutant generals of New York State have given it as their opinion that the State authorities have no right whatsoever, without special legislation, to detail militiamen for what is considered private duty.

Indianapolis and Savannah would both like the contest. It has been said that Savannah will make an effort to secure the Vanderbilt for her famous course. This, however, is doubted by those who are closely in touch with the Savannah authorities. The southern city has sought and is seeking the honor of hosting the Grand Prize Contest, but that one such race on this is all she cares to handle in any one year. Furthermore, should Savannah attempt to secure the Vanderbilt, they would surely develop one powerful, sidewise opposition against her, which might have a tendency to extend to the Grand Prize as well as the Vanderbilt.

Savannah seems to have the inside track on the Grand Prize race, and she will not jeopardize her interests by precipitating out and endeavoring to play the whole field.

Indianapolis may perhaps induce the Governor of Indiana to look upon road racing and the guarding of the course in the same light as does the chief executive of Georgia. If she can secure military guarding of the course, she will stand an excellent chance of securing the contest, unless something unexpected happens in New York State.

After a careful diagnosis of the conditions prevailing in the automobile industry the Mitchell-Lewis Motor Company of Racine, Wis., has decided to manufacture three types of cars, model R, model T and model S, during the year 1911. They estimate that almost $12,000,000 worth of these will meet the absorbing power of the market.

It would have been easy for the Mitchell-Lewis company to yield to the demands of the enthusiastic men who deal in their output and to have planned a material increase in the 1911 production, amounting to an inevitable building of the annual product, but the company was satisfied to set a minimum of output within the limit total of specifications expressed at the annual gathering of Mitchell agents. That every machine produced by the Mitchell for the 1911 specifications will be delivered to the consumers is taken as an axiom in the councils of the executives.

WED IN HUB AFTER ROMANCE ON LINER

A romance which had its beginning on board the liner Mauretania culminated in the wedding of Miss Alanda Achaus of Boston to Hyman Berman of San Antonio, Tex., at Minot's Hall, Springfield street.

While Miss Achaus was crossing the winter to New York she met Mr. Berman. After the arrival in port Mr. Berman went to take up the life of a cowboy and Miss Achaus came to Boston, but it was not long before the couple started a correspondence.

FINE CONCERT BY LONGY CLUB

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

Modern French composers have found time during their revolutionary activities in the realms of opera and symphonic music to bring forth a host of wind instruments.

The Longy Club concert in Chickering Hall last night revealed an interesting chamber music duet and piano, which is rather more melodious than we would naturally expect from the inventor of perfect sounds. The duet was a clarinettist.

Dukas, the young Frenchman whose operas and orchestral efforts are almost as striking as those of Debussy, was represented by a trio for horn and piano which had character.

Leon Morgan, who is not so well known as others on the Longy School staff, was disclosed as a capable composer of a nocturne. Several exquisite numbers from Gebrittl and Bach and an octet by Gouvy completed the program.

The concert was marked by the keen and appreciative attention of the audience as well as the enthusiasm and scholarship of the players.

NORDICA IN FINE VOICE IN GIOCONDA

Lillian Nordica was greeted warmly by the Tuesday night audience at the Boston Opera. At the end of the second act she received enormous quantities of flowers while applause was loud and prolonged.

Gioconda was the opera and it was sung by the same cast as at the Saturday matinee, except that Constantino succeeded Ricardo Martin as Enzo Grimaldi.

Constantino brought all his great vocal powers and artistry to the part and his performance was easily superior. Nordica was in better voice than on Saturday and as usual impressed by the finesse of her acting. Maria Claessens sang well as Laura and Mario Laurenti was excellent as La Cieca.

George Hakanioff is always to be admired as Barnaba. The opera began officially with Tuesday night's performance, but management did not consider it advisable to have the poisoning scene as without it the performance was not over until after 11 o'clock.

The Triumph Won by Maude Adams in "Chantecler"

You SHOULD See Her When She Comes to Boston. She Plays in a Story of Life Told in Allegory. It is a Beautiful Play. Magnificently Produced.

Copyright, 1911, by American-Journal-Examiner.

All of the intelligent men and women who read this newspaper should see Maude Adams in "Chantecler." She is playing it now in New York at the Knickerbocker Theatre, but later she will come to Boston and everybody will have a chance to see her. The play is an artistic, dignified production of Rostand's great poem. It is beautiful as a spectacle, beautiful in thought, beautifully acted and perfectly mounted.

The thanks of the community are due to Charles Frohman and to Maude Adams for the opportunity which they offer to the public by producing this play in America.

Many of our readers know the story that Rostand tells in his poem. The animals, barnyard fowl, dogs and others interpret and present vividly the leading emotions and ambitions that control the minds of human beings.

Vanity, ambition, humility—all of the passions that make up a human soul are there, divided up among the animals, each representing one particular part of the make-up of the human being. The story and the tragedy of the barnyard and the field, as told in this play, is the story of human life on the biggest and the smallest scales.

The intelligent man and woman MUST see this play. It awakens thought, it is vividly interesting, and, above all, stimulating to the imagination.

Chantecler, the leading character among the animals, believes that the world depends upon him, that the sun rises when—and only when—his crowing bids it rise.

This is the character that Maude Adams plays admirably. She is to be thanked for the care and the intelligence that she has brought to the interpretation of a difficult part. The hundreds of thousands that already know her, and the other hundreds of thousands that ought to know her—a woman of whom the stage and the country may well be proud—should see her in this difficult and intellectual work.

It is humiliating and pitiful to those who understand the possibilities of intelligent constructive criticism to realize how little true appreciation has been expressed of Miss Adams's admirable work in this great play, and of Mr. Frohman's energy and public spirit in its presentation on the grandest possible scale.

Some of the microscopic critics are grieved because Miss Adams plays the part of Chantecler, the lord of the barnyard. Their minds are glued so fast to the one grand fact that Chantecler is a rooster that they cannot see anything in the lines of Rostand or anything in the fine interpretation of Maude Adams.

Such critics would want a genuine donkey to play the part of Bottom, a virago to play Lady Macbeth, and a trained bullfinch to sing the bird music in Wagner's opera.

Maude Adams interprets the character of Chantecler spiritually and intellectually. She reads the beautiful, impressive lines better than they could be read by any man on the American stage. And she gives to her audiences what intelligent men and women want, AN ACCURATE, BEAUTIFUL AND ARTISTIC INTERPRETATION OF THE THOUGHTS THAT INSPIRED ROSTAND IN HIS WORK.

This newspaper, and its readers, at least will appreciate Maude Adams, her work, and what she stands for in her profession.

Maude Adams is valuable, not only because of what she does, but because of her influence upon others. Her success, based on absolutely conscientious effort, is an incentive and an inspiration to thousands of other women.

Only a few days since a young actress, beginning her career hopefully, was asked to take the leading part in a play unpleasant in its character, immoral in its teachings. Her very sane reply was, "I have got Maude Adams in my mind. She never played a part that her own mother or father would not have wanted to see her play; she is at the head of her profession, and if I ever get there I am going to get there in the same way."

A woman like Maude Adams, who influences other women in that way, is a real moral asset in the nation, a real honor to her profession.

Her latest production of Chantecler is in keeping with her other work. It has meant for her long effort, great preparation, painstaking work on her own part, and on the part of others associated with her. In return for this there can be no adequate financial reward either for her or for her manager, Charles Frohman. Both are interested in the honor of a great production. And both are entitled to public appreciation and thanks.

As a rule, the AMERICAN does not suggest or approve the taking of children to the theatre. But this is a play to which children may well be taken—at matinees—for while the deep thought of Rostand will not be appreciated by them, the beautiful pictures presented on the stage, and the very simple story, which they will understand, will delight them and develop them mentally.

See this play "Chantecler" when it comes to Boston without fail, and study your own character and mind in studying the impressions that Rostand's work, so full of meaning, makes upon YOU.

Big Features Coming

Next Sunday's AMERICAN will have a lot of illustrated special stories you cannot afford to miss. As usual, they will be the best in Boston.

When You Know Just How

By KENNETT HARRIS

SOME things excite our awe and admiration;
We see them and we wonder at them, sighing
"That fellow certainly does beat creation,
The very laws of nature he's defying.
In double knots his person he is tying;
He's all unjointed and he's living through it."
But though it's hard at first, there's no denying,
It's easy when you know just how to do it.

This "statesman" has just won a "vindication,"
Into some matters people have been prying.
Some matters of a certain elevation,
Connected with a selling and a buying.
We really thought the fat would soon be frying,
We thought there was but one way to construe it;
But see that lovely coat of whitewash drying!
It's easy when you know just how to do it.

One sort of squirmer wins our approbation,
But at the other kind we're rather shying;
The rankness of them rather spoils the station,
Respect for it is dead—no longer dying.
The fraud was patent and the shame was crying,
But they believed it risky to taboo it;
There will be questions and some smooth replying,
It's easy when you know just how to do it.

L'ENVOI.

The verdict, you will admit, was somewhat trying,
A bitter cud, but we will have to chew it.
As for this triumph of artistic lying,
It's easy when you know just how to do it.

He Writes About Terrible Blizzards

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

THARE was a terribul blizzard the other night in town, it was the worst since the Holidays a yeer ago. The snowflakes blew into the window jest as Pa was blowing into the door. Oh, mercy, sed Ma, look what the blizzard brought in.

Yes, sed Pa, I am here. I had a terribul time of it gitting home. You are sure you dident stop in at any saloons, sed Ma. I dident stop in anywhere, Pa sed. I am afraid of blizzards, sed Pa, beekuss my brother Robert was killed in a blizzard. He was out driving in the cows on our South Dakota ranch, and along calm the blizzard & the next thing we knew our poor brother was ded. He was found under a snowdrift, sed Pa.

Well, anyhow, sed Pa, I am here, & you ought to be glad that yure living husband fought his way thru the tempest to be present at the meeting of the Whittier Club. By the way, sed Pa, what is this Whittier Club, anyhow?

It is mostly a crowd of our neighbors' wives, sed Ma, they are interested in all them New England poets, such as William Bryant & Henry Longfeller and Greenleaf Whittier & the rest of them noshel heroes that rote poetry with it wud-taik a stern & rockbound constitution to read & still live.

Isent the time ever going to com, sed Pa, wen I can com hoam & find myself surrounded by my wife & child without running into a literary clinick of sum kind. It seems, sed Pa, that I can't ever strike the old ranch without shoving away a lot of hens. How long is this here thing going to keep on? sed Pa.

We was thinking ronite, sed one of Ma's frends, that in-as-much as we was getting a regular blizzard, which we seem to be getting rite now, it wuddent be a bad idee to have a Snowbound Party. Of course, sir, she sed to Pa, you have red that grent poem of Mister Whittier's called Snowbound. All of us guris thought that we wud rite four lines apeece about a snow storm, & we thought that we wud mail all our stanzas like Mister Whittier's Snowbound. That is why we call ourselves the Whittier Club, sed one of the guris to Pa.

Oh, all rite, sed Pa, do you want me to rite the first poem? Then here goes:
The sun that February day
Saw father plodding on his way.
He wud nevver have reached his home, I aware,
Had he known the Whittier Club was thare.

Sum of the ladies in the party started to say sumthing, but they was so mad that they cud just gulp.

There was one (1) brave old lady thare, tho, & she stood up & she looked rite at Pa when she red.

We who belong to the Whittier Club
Nevver thought to recevve a Dub
But seeing the Dub is our hostess's Hub,

He'll have to be stood for by the Whittier Club.

Thay dident give me much of a resepshun, did they, Bobbie? sed Pa.

No, I sed to Pa, thay did not.

Do Not Be My Valentine

By CHESTER FIRKINS

Do not be my Valentine,
I beseech you, Lady Mine.
Though I love you vastly more
Than I've ever loved before;
Though I'd very gladly die
Just to spare you from a sigh;
Though I hold you half divine,
Please don't be my Valentine.

In my youth (Ah, yes, I own
Other flames my heart has known)—
I was wont to pen a line
Saying: "Be my Valentine"
To each lass that I adored.
That was how my love was floored;
For they took me at my sign,
And each WAS a Valentine.

Just a fluffy thing of lace,
With a rosy, foolish face;
Painted, too—oh, think of that!
Flimsy, futile, fickle, flat;
And within these wrappings smart
Just a frobicsy paper heart;
Every former love of mine
WAS a living Valentine.

Gentle Lady, don't construe
This as any knock on you;
Think not that I'd dare to scorn
Love's own February morn;
You can have my heart, my life
But I want you for my WIFE.
Therefore, if you would be mine,
Do not be my Valentine.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

THREE DRUG STORE SHIFTS

Editor AMERICAN:

Referring to the letter about "Druggists and Clerks," I fully agree with the writer when he says that they work long hours and every day in the year. The proprietor and clerks should not work unreasonable hours, but should have two, or possibly three, shifts of employes. In most of the suburban towns I should think it would be policy to have the store open at 7 a. m. and close at 12 midnight. Also to have an emergency man to be ready at any hour of the night for emergency calls.

A PUBLIC DEFENDER

Editor AMERICAN:

The suggestion by a Springfield clergyman for the establisment of a "Public Defender" as well as a "Public Prosecutor" in our municipal and police courts, is a step in the right direction. It would be preferable to have one entirely out of the jurisdiction of the court officials, to be impartial and just in his investigation of those accused of infraction of the law. Under present condition, the accused has no opportunity of defending himself in court, even against the arresting officer, whose word is taken, in many cases, as conclusive evidence. The essential duties of a "Public Defender" becomes obvious. Under the present system, a miscarriage of justice unintentionally often happens.

HARD WORKING DRUG CLERKS

Editor AMERICAN:

It was with profound gratification and pleasure that I read on the editorial page of your valued paper an article signed "One of Them." I am glad that some one has at last had the courage to say a word for the drug clerk. We are, as "One of Them" says, the poorest paid of any class of employes, and we certainly devote our entire lives to a so-called profession.

Compare the hours and salary of the drug clerk with the hours and pay of the rod carrier, and see for yourself if we should not get together and start something. "In union there is strength." Why not get together? I know certain druggists advocate shorter hours, and it would not be a difficult matter to have them all fall in line for shorter hours and more salary.
